Firmer U.S.-Latin America Relations Needed, Ike Says

Eisenhower Renews Offers Of Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower assured the American people Tuesday night that U.S. relationships with her sister republics of Latin America have—with very few exceptions—"reached an all-time high." He added that "an even firmer partnership must be our goal."

Eisenhower was reporting in a prepared nationwide radio-TV address on the grueling, 15,500-mile good-will mission to South America from which he returned Monday.

He called it "a most instructive and rewarding experience."

But if the nations of Latin America were expecting any concrete plans for assistance or specific offers of U.S. help, now that Eisenhower has seen their immense problems first hand, the speech was a disappointment. Eisenhower renewed offers he made many times on his tour to hold out the hand of this country in cooperation. But he spelled out no wealth of details.

Eisenhower was warmly received by tremendous crowds in all the four countries he visited—Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay. And he said his first words must be a heartfelt expression of gratitude for the friendly receptions wherever he went.

"Millions endured hot summer sun—and occasionally rain—to let us know of the enthusiastic good will they have for the government and people of the United States," the President said.

"In the nations of Latin America I visited — indeed, in all of the 18 countries I have visited on my trips of recent months—there is a vast reservoir of respect, admiration and affection for the United States of America.

"The expressions of this attitude by peoples and their leaders were so enthusiastic and so often repeated as to admit no possibility of mistake."

Men Caught Behind Fire Deep In Pit

Two Diggers Reach Safety; New Rescue Attempt Planned

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP) — Hope faded Tuesday night for 18 men trapped behind a fire four miles deep in a coal mine.

Rescuers racing time to save them contradicted an earlier official statement the fire was under control.

Two miners escaped by a circuitous route after the fire was discovered at 8:30 a.m. One said eight or 10 more might have been saved if they had followed them.

Nine hours after the blaze was discovered, rescue crews were forced to abandon an attempt to reach the trapped men by an old slope on the opposite side of a mountain, about five miles from the Kentucky border.

A spokesman for the Island Creek Coal Co. said a new rescue attempt would be made to reach the area where the men are believed to be. That would be made through the main heading, where the fire started.

Slate Fall Breaks Wire

A small slate fall which broke a trolley wire was blamed for igniting the fire which broke out in the company's Holden 22 mine eight miles southwest of here.

For a time, the trapped men were safe in an area well ventilated.

They talked by mine telephone with the outside, then the phone went dead. The fire apparently burned through a cable.

Flame-killing foam was the main weapon used in an effort to quench the flames, but if the smoldering fire burned too deeply, rescuers would try sealing it off with wooden partitions.

Willie Carter, 46, a ventilation expert, and Kyle Blair, 29, were the two who escaped. Carter has a brother still trapped.

Senate Takes Break; Cloture Vote Thursday

Petition To Halt Debate Signed By 31 Northerners

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate finally quit its nonstop talking about civil rights Tuesday night and set for Thursday morning a vote on whether to halt the filibuster by Southerners.

The record-breaking oratorical session that started Feb. 29 finally ground to a halt at 8:10 p.m. after 18 Southern Democrats had kept the words flowing almost continuously for 157 hours 41 minutes. The Senate did recess over Sunday.

The verbal marathon by the civil rights opponents far outlasted the previous champion talkfest, the 1954 filibuster against an atomic energy bill. That took 85 hours 23 minutes.

The recess until 10:30 a.m. Wednesday was agreed to by the Democratic and Republican leaders after a day of parliamentary maneuvering in which civil rights advocates succeeded in forcing a vote on cloture—ending the debate—on Thursday morning.

Petition's Defeat Forecast

The cloture petition was signed by 31 Northern senators.

Leaders of both parties predicted defeat of the petition. Vice President Richard M. Nixon reportedly took himself out of the squabble.

The cloture move will fail unless it gets the backing of two-thirds of the senators present. But until the Thursday vote, at least, senators will be able to get some sleep at night.

Nixon's position was reported by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) after they huddled with the vice president for 20 minutes in the rear of the Senate chamber.

Dirksen also told newsmen he hopes the Senate will vote directly on a Northern coalition's proposal to allow the attorney general to initiate court action to halt any alleged violation of an individual's civil rights.

Javits Backs Proposal

Sen. Javits is one of the proposal's most fervent supporters. Dirksen opposes it. So does Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader.

Javits, with agreement from Dirksen, said he is convinced Nixon is "absolutely for" the administration package now before the Senate. This provides for court-appointed referees to assure voting rights, but also would authority of law to a commission Nixon now heads to eliminate discrimination among workers on government contracts.

Castro Rejects Herter Protest As "Insulting"

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government Tuesday night rejected as "insulting" U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's protests against Prime Minister Fidel Castro's accusations of sabotage.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa handed a note to U.S. Charge d'Affaires Daniel M. Braddock rejecting the U.S. protest and demanding that representatives of the Cuban government be addressed with "absolute respect . . . without descending to offensive utterances of a personal character."

"We protest against the aggressive tone derogatory to our national dignity of the statements mentioned above," Roa said.

He told Braddock that Cuba looks forward to the announced forthcoming note from the United States "in order to give the proper reply to the government of your excellency."

Braddock, summoned to the Foreign Ministry, spent 20 minutes with Roa.

Roa was asked by newsmen whether he had anything to add to the statement. He replied "that's all. It speaks for itself."

Herter, in unusually blunt language Monday, denounced Castro's charge that American officials were responsible for last Friday's munitions ship explosion in Havana harbor that took more than 50 lives.

Herter called the accusation "baseless, erroneous and misleading."

He made the remarks, some of the sharpest ever directed at a foreign diplomat, to Cuban Charge d'Affaires Enrique Patterson.

Demo Entry Is Impressive In First Test

Observers Predict Primary Vote Will Exceed 1956 Count

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) swept to overwhelming victories Tuesday in New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary.

They did it on a rising tide of votes which observers predicted, on the basis of early returns, would exceed those cast in the 1956 presidential primary in this state.

Nixon, unopposed on the Republican preference poll ballot, far outdistanced New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who received some write-in votes.

136,000 Voted In 1956

Heavy voting was reported throughout the state and all the signs pointed to an astonishing outpouring of voters for an election without a major contest.

There was a possibility the total might reach—or even surpass—the previous primary record of 136,000 established in 1952.

The outcome of the balloting was not surprising, but the turnout of the voters was. The latter apparently resulted from election eve charges by Gov. Wesley Powell, Nixon's state campaign manager, that Kennedy was "soft toward communism."

Kennedy replied this was a smear and Nixon's office issued a statement repudiating Powell's charge.

With 49 of the state's 300 precincts unofficially tabulated, Nixon had 3,915 votes in the GOP preference poll, and Rockefeller drew only 171 write-ins.

In 46 precincts, Kennedy piled up 2,649 votes to 255 for Fisher.

2-1 GOP Margin Traditional

Kennedy's strong showing in the early returns raised the possibility he would narrow the traditional margin of at least 2-1 enjoyed by Republican candidates over their Democratic opponents in past primaries.

Both Nixon and Kennedy piled up commanding leads in the other section of the two-part ballots—the contests for election of delegates to the national nominating conventions.

Because delegate candidates backing others didn't file complete slates, Nixon was certain of five of the state's 14-member delegation to the GOP convention and his supporters were far ahead in all the other races.

Kennedy was assured of at least 11 of the 20 Democratic delegate seats at stake and the senator's backers were leading by impressive margins for the other nine.

Gov. Powell and United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge topped the write-in field in the Republican vice presidential preference poll, where no candidate was formally entered.

With returns tabulated from 43 precincts, Powell had 340 votes and Lodge 220.

Arrests Halt Negro Protest Demonstration

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Police broke up a Negro protest demonstration at Alabama State College Tuesday and hauled 34 students and a faculty member off to jail.

Two other Negroes were taken into custody at the jail while trying to get in to see the students under arrest.

It was the second time in three days that police stopped Negroes from demonstrating publicly against the recent expulsion of nine students who took part in earlier antisegregation activities.

But it was the first time any were arrested.

Police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan, who announced Saturday that no more demonstrations would be tolerated, white or Negro, declared "we still stand firm on our intention to maintain law and order in Montgomery."

A scheduled Negro mass meeting at the state capitol Sunday almost touched off a racial clash, but an estimated 500 city, county and state officers broke it up and drove off a jeering crowd of some 5,000 white persons.

The students were arrested as they massed on the college campus where about 1,000 men and women had voted Monday to boycott the school.

Elizabeth Taylor Injures Ankle In Fall On Ice

It first was feared her left leg was broken and she left her husband, Eddie Fisher, in Philadelphia, and came here by private car to enter Harkness Pavilion of Columbia - Presbyterian Medical Center.

Half an hour after she was wheeled into the hospital in a chair, Miss Taylor walked out. An X-ray disclosed a bone bruise on the ankle but no fracture. She hopped back in the private car to return to Philadelphia and Fisher, who is visiting his mother there.

Khrush Sends Ike 'Personal Message'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Tuesday received a "personal message" of an undisclosed nature from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The message was delivered personally by Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov who had asked and received permission to meet with the president.

The Soviet envoy shouldered his way through a swarm of news men on leaving the White House, refusing to give any indication of the nature or content of Khrushchev's message.

"It was a personal message," he said, "and since it's personal, it's personal."

West Narrows Gap On Unified Disarm Plan

PARIS (AP)—Western experts were reported to have made some progress Tuesday toward a coordinated disarmament plan for presentation to the Soviet bloc next week.

"We expect some important decisions tomorrow," said a source who sat in on the five-power Western talks.

The United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy are making a final effort here to establish a unified position for the 10-nation, East-West disarmament parley opening in Geneva next Monday. There has been a gap in thinking between France and the others.

The experts ordered their aides to put Western draft proposals on paper for the start of another session Wednesday.

The schedule calls for presentation of the plan to the Permanent Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Thursday.

Details were kept secret. But there was an indication from conference sources that some middle ground had been found between the French position and that supported by the United States and the other delegations.

The French have insisted on top priority in any disarmament plan for destruction of nuclear weapons stocks and the means to deliver the weapons. Without this, the French contend, there would be no real disarmament.

The United States has favored a step-by-step approach, starting with test suspension and ultimately leading to destruction of stocks and delivery vehicles.

30 Reportedly Survive Crash Of Navy Plane

JEREZ DEL MARQUESADO, Spain (AP)—A U.S. Navy transport plane crashed into the rugged Sierra Nevada mountain range Tuesday but all aboard were reported alive, local officials reported.

It could not be established immediately how many persons were aboard but these officials said there were believed to be 30.

The C54 four-engine plane was en route from Naples, Italy, to the American naval base in Rota, in southern Cadiz province.

Two uninjured crew members who succeeded in climbing down to Jerez del Marquesado said all aboard the plane were alive but some were injured.

The two were quoted by Jerez authorities as saying all their comrades were still aboard the plane. The plane was severely damaged but did not catch fire, they said.

Jury Deliberations Resume In Finch Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With bulging note pads to guide them, jurors in the Finch murder trial Tuesday resumed deliberations interrupted for a rehearing of the text of a secret tape recording.

In it Dr. R. Bernard Finch gave his first account of what happened last July 18, the night his wife, Barbara Jean, died of a bullet in the back in suburban West Covina.

The 42-year-old physician and his mistress, Carole Tregoff, 23, are charged with murder and conspiracy in Mrs. Finch's death. The defense claims the doctor fired the fatal shot accidentally.

Spaak's Mother Dies

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Mrs. Paul Spaak, 87, mother of Secretary General Paul - Henri Spaak of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, died here Tuesday. The widow of a lawyer who died in 1913, Mrs. Spaak was the first woman to sit in Belgium's Parliament. She was appointed a Socialist senator in 1921 and served until 1958.

Two More Quake Survivors Found In Agadir Ruins

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Two survivors were found in the ruins of Agadir Tuesday — eight days after the city was destroyed by two giant earthquakes.

Officials said two Moroccans were found in the rubble of the native district of the city.

It has been estimated that up to 12,000 persons lost their lives when Agadir was struck by two giant earthquakes around midnight, Monday, Feb. 29.

Kidnaped Negro Beaten, Slashed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Negro told police that white youths scratched KKK—symbol of the Ku Klux Klan — on his skin Monday night after hanging him by his heels and beating him with chains.

Felton Turner, 27, said two masked youths forced him into a car in which two other white youths also rode and took him to a wooded area. There, he said, they "hung me up by my feet with my head and shoulders on the ground."

He told police that "the short one asked the tall one if he were ready for him to work me over. 'Yeah, go ahead,' the tall one replied. So the short one started beating me up with that chain and something else I couldn't see.

"The tall one ripped my shirt off and took out his pen knife and began cutting on me. I could feel them cutting on my chest and they just kept on cutting and I could tell they were making some sort of design."

He said when the youths left, he freed himself and went to a night watchman's shack and telephoned police.

The FBI entered the case but no arrests had been made.

Cold Sets New Records; More Snow On Way

By United Press International

Record cold continued and more snow was on the way across the nation's shivering Midlands Tuesday.

Some of the bitterest March weather on record refused to ease the pressure on a vast area stretching from the eastern plains to the Ohio Valley.

Record low temperatures were reported through Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Cleveland with 1 below zero, registered its third record-breaker in as many days. Other new marks were 4 above at Pittsburgh, 2 below at Columbus, Ohio and 5 below at Greenville, Ohio. Marquette, Mich., became the nation's coldest town with a 20 below temperature.

Warm air struggled northward from the Gulf states, but carried with it the threat of snow or freezing drizzle from the great plains to the Appalachian Mountains.

A nasty mixture of snow, sleet and freezing drizzle had already spread across Kansas and southern Nebraska, while snow fell on the northern plains.

Foster Parents In Court Fight To Keep Gifted Girl

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Heartbreak will be the future of gifted, 4-year-old Alice Marie Combs if she is taken from her foster parents, the lawyer for the young couple predicted Tuesday at a court hearing.

The girl's fine intelligence would have a better chance to develop outside the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Combs, the state countered.

The arguments were presented at an hour-long hearing before the Appellate Division of Superior Court, New Jersey's second highest tribunal. The court must now decide Alice Marie's future.

The bright, talkative girl was at the Combs' home where she has been living for four years. The Combs also stayed home in Old Bridge.

Combs, 25, a $119-a-week sheet metal worker, said he would take the case to the State Supreme Court, if necessary.

Samuel Epstein, Combs' attorney, said they would have had no case if the state had allowed another family to start adoption proceedings in 1958. It was learned that year that Alice Marie's IQ was 138, a near-genius level.

But, he said, "they lulled these people into a feeling of false security" by allowing them to go through adoption procedures before rejecting them.

The Combs gave Alice Marie a good home, he said. They have developed her present intelligence to its relatively high level. And they love her.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Eugene T. Urbaniak countered that Alice Marie was turned over to the state by her natural mother. The Combs got her only on a boarding basis and agreed in writing they would have no adoption rights, he said.

China A-Bomb Test Reported Imminent

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Communist China plans to join the nuclear club this month by exploding a small atomic bomb with Soviet help, a member of Parliament said Tuesday.

Dr. Raghuvira, who claims to have wide contacts in Red China, said the date for the test is March 28.

He told Parliament the explosion would be set off near Urumchi, the capital of Communist China's far-western Province of Sinkiang. Western scientists have reported that atomic research is under way in that area, and an atomic explosion would come as no great surprise to them.

Four Red Soldiers Adrift 49 Days Ate Shoe Leather

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Four Soviet soldiers, safe on a U.S. aircraft carrier after drifting 49 days in the Pacific, told their rescuers Tuesday they got so hungry they ate shoe leather.

The men, picked up about 11 p.m. EST Sunday by the aircraft carrier Kearsarge, appeared to be recovering as the carrier steamed toward San Francisco. Each lost 35 to 40 pounds.

The skipper of the Kearsarge, Capt. Robert L. Townsend of Harlingen, Tex., messaged their story to Pacific Fleet Headquarters at Pearl Harbor.

The men said they were on training exercises in a 50-foot landing craft off Etorofu-to Island in the Kuriles, north of the Japanese Hokkaido Island. A severe storm swept them to the southwest.

They drifted about 1,000 miles.

"They lost control of the boat and were swept out to sea," Townsend reported. "They had only vodka, three cans of jerky beef and one loaf of bread." The Navy said their only water was gathered from rainfall.

The Soviets asked Tuesday where they were being sent and expressed a strong desire to return to their homeland. They were told the Kearsarge expected to arrive at San Francisco about March 15.

The men were leaning against the superstructure of their boat when a twin-engine Navy patrol plane from the Kearsarge spotted them 1,000 miles west northwest of Midway Island.

The Kearsarge, 15 miles away, changed course and launched rescue helicopters.

Men Caught Behind Fire Deep In Pit

Two Diggers Reach Safety; New Rescue Attempt Planned

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP) — Hope faded Tuesday night for 18 men trapped behind a fire four miles deep in a coal mine.

Rescuers racing time to save them contradicted an earlier official statement the fire was under control.

Two miners escaped by a circuitous route after the fire was discovered at 8:30 a.m. One said eight or 10 more might have been saved if they had followed them.

Nine hours after the blaze was discovered, rescue crews were forced to abandon an attempt to reach the trapped men by an old slope on the opposite side of a mountain, about five miles from the Kentucky border.

A spokesman for the Island Creek Coal Co. said a new rescue attempt would be made to reach the area where the men are believed to be. That would be made through the main heading, where the fire started.

Slate Fall Breaks Wire

A small slate fall which broke a trolley wire was blamed for igniting the fire which broke out in the company's Holden 22 mine eight miles southwest of here.

For a time, the trapped men were safe in an area well ventilated.

They talked by mine telephone with the outside, then the phone went dead. The fire apparently burned through a cable.

Flame-killing foam was the main weapon used in an effort to quench the flames, but if the smoldering fire burned too deeply, rescuers would try sealing it off with wooden partitions.

Willie Carter, 46, a ventilation expert, and Kyle Blair, 29, were the two who escaped. Carter has a brother still trapped.

30 Reportedly Survive Crash Of Navy Plane

JEREZ DEL MARQUESADO, Spain (AP)—A U.S. Navy transport plane crashed into the rugged Sierra Nevada mountain range Tuesday but all aboard were reported alive, local officials reported.

It could not be established immediately how many persons were aboard but these officials said there were believed to be 30.

The C54 four-engine plane was en route from Naples, Italy, to the American naval base in Rota, in southern Cadiz province.

Two uninjured crew members who succeeded in climbing down to Jerez del Marquesado said all aboard the plane were alive but some were injured.

The two were quoted by Jerez authorities as saying all their comrades were still aboard the plane. The plane was severely damaged but did not catch fire, they said.

Jury Deliberations Resume In Finch Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With bulging note pads to guide them, jurors in the Finch murder trial Tuesday resumed deliberations interrupted for a rehearing of the text of a secret tape recording.

In it Dr. R. Bernard Finch gave his first account of what happened last July 18, the night his wife, Barbara Jean, died of a bullet in the back in suburban West Covina.

The 42-year-old physician and his mistress, Carole Tregoff, 23, are charged with murder and conspiracy in Mrs. Finch's death. The defense claims the doctor fired the fatal shot accidentally.

Senate Takes Break; Cloture Vote Thursday

Petition To Halt Debate Signed By 31 Northerners

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate finally quit its nonstop talking about civil rights Tuesday night and set for Thursday morning a vote on whether to halt the filibuster by Southerners.

The record-breaking oratorical session that started Feb. 29 finally ground to a halt at 8:10 p.m. after 18 Southern Democrats had kept the words flowing almost continuously for 157 hours 41 minutes. The Senate did recess over Sunday.

The verbal marathon by the civil rights opponents far outlasted the previous champion talkfest, the 1954 filibuster against an atomic energy bill. That took 85 hours 23 minutes.

The recess until 10:30 a.m. Wednesday was agreed to by the Democratic and Republican leaders after a day of parliamentary maneuvering in which civil rights advocates succeeded in forcing a vote on cloture—ending the debate—on Thursday morning.

Petition's Defeat Forecast

The cloture petition was signed by 31 Northern senators.

Leaders of both parties predicted defeat of the petition. Vice President Richard M. Nixon reportedly took himself out of the squabble.

The cloture move will fail unless it gets the backing of two-thirds of the senators present. But until the Thursday vote, at least, senators will be able to get some sleep at night.

Nixon's position was reported by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) after they huddled with the vice president for 20 minutes in the rear of the Senate chamber.

Dirksen also told newsmen he hopes the Senate will vote directly on a Northern coalition's proposal to allow the attorney general to initiate court action to halt any alleged violation of an individual's civil rights.

Javits Backs Proposal

Sen. Javits is one of the proposal's most fervent supporters. Dirksen opposes it. So does Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader.

Javits, with agreement from Dirksen, said he is convinced Nixon is "absolutely for" the administration package now before the Senate. This provides for court-appointed referees to assure voting rights, but also would authority of law to a commission Nixon now heads to eliminate discrimination among workers on government contracts.

Castro Rejects Herter Protest As "Insulting"

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government Tuesday night rejected as "insulting" U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's protests against Prime Minister Fidel Castro's accusations of sabotage.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa handed a note to U.S. Charge d'Affaires Daniel M. Braddock rejecting the U.S. protest and demanding that representatives of the Cuban government be addressed with "absolute respect . . . without descending to offensive utterances of a personal character."

"We protest against the aggressive tone derogatory to our national dignity of the statements mentioned above," Roa said.

He told Braddock that Cuba looks forward to the announced forthcoming note from the United States "in order to give the proper reply to the government of your excellency."

Braddock, summoned to the Foreign Ministry, spent 20 minutes with Roa.

Roa was asked by newsmen whether he had anything to add to the statement. He replied "that's all. It speaks for itself."

Herter, in unusually blunt language Monday, denounced Castro's charge that American officials were responsible for last Friday's munitions ship explosion in Havana harbor that took more than 50 lives.

Herter called the accusation "baseless, erroneous and misleading."

He made the remarks, some of the sharpest ever directed at a foreign diplomat, to Cuban Charge d'Affaires Enrique Patterson.

Two More Quake Survivors Found In Agadir Ruins

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Two survivors were found in the ruins of Agadir Tuesday — eight days after the city was destroyed by two giant earthquakes.

Officials said two Moroccans were found in the rubble of the native district of the city.

It has been estimated that up to 12,000 persons lost their lives when Agadir was struck by two giant earthquakes around midnight, Monday, Feb. 29.

Four Red Soldiers Adrift 49 Days Ate Shoe Leather

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Four Soviet soldiers, safe on a U.S. aircraft carrier after drifting 49 days in the Pacific, told their rescuers Tuesday they got so hungry they ate shoe leather.

The men, picked up about 11 p.m. EST Sunday by the aircraft carrier Kearsarge, appeared to be recovering as the carrier steamed toward San Francisco. Each lost 35 to 40 pounds.

The skipper of the Kearsarge, Capt. Robert L. Townsend of Harlingen, Tex., messaged their story to Pacific Fleet Headquarters at Pearl Harbor.

The men said they were on training exercises in a 50-foot landing craft off Etorofu-to Island in the Kuriles, north of the Japanese Hokkaido Island. A severe storm swept them to the southwest.

They drifted about 1,000 miles.

"They lost control of the boat and were swept out to sea," Townsend reported. "They had only vodka, three cans of jerky beef and one loaf of bread." The Navy said their only water was gathered from rainfall.

The Soviets asked Tuesday where they were being sent and expressed a strong desire to return to their homeland. They were told the Kearsarge expected to arrive at San Francisco about March 15.

The men were leaning against the superstructure of their boat when a twin-engine Navy patrol plane from the Kearsarge spotted them 1,000 miles west northwest of Midway Island.

The Kearsarge, 15 miles away, changed course and launched rescue helicopters.

Demo Entry Is Impressive In First Test

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) swept to overwhelming victories Tuesday in New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary.

They did it on a rising tide of votes which observers predicted, on the basis of early returns, would exceed those cast in the 1956 presidential primary in this state.

Nixon, unopposed on the Republican preference poll ballot, far outdistanced New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who received some write-in votes.

136,000 Voted In 1956

Heavy voting was reported throughout the state and all the signs pointed to an astonishing outpouring of voters for an election without a major contest.

There was a possibility the total might reach—or even surpass—the previous primary record of 136,000 established in 1952.

The outcome of the balloting was not surprising, but the turnout of the voters was. The latter apparently resulted from election eve charges by Gov. Wesley Powell, Nixon's state campaign manager, that Kennedy was "soft toward communism."

Kennedy replied this was a smear and Nixon's office issued a statement repudiating Powell's charge.

With 49 of the state's 300 precincts unofficially tabulated, Nixon had 3,915 votes in the GOP preference poll, and Rockefeller drew only 171 write-ins.

In 46 precincts, Kennedy piled up 2,649 votes to 255 for Fisher.

2-1 GOP Margin Traditional

Kennedy's strong showing in the early returns raised the possibility he would narrow the traditional margin of at least 2-1 enjoyed by Republican candidates over their Democratic opponents in past primaries.

Both Nixon and Kennedy piled up commanding leads in the other section of the two-part ballots—the contests for election of delegates to the national nominating conventions.

Because delegate candidates backing others didn't file complete slates, Nixon was certain of five of the state's 14-member delegation to the GOP convention and his supporters were far ahead in all the other races.

Kennedy was assured of at least 11 of the 20 Democratic delegate seats at stake and the senator's backers were leading by impressive margins for the other nine.

Gov. Powell and United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge topped the write-in field in the Republican vice presidential preference poll, where no candidate was formally entered.

With returns tabulated from 43 precincts, Powell had 340 votes and Lodge 220.

Kidnaped Negro Beaten, Slashed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Negro told police that white youths scratched KKK—symbol of the Ku Klux Klan — on his skin Monday night after hanging him by his heels and beating him with chains.

Felton Turner, 27, said two masked youths forced him into a car in which two other white youths also rode and took him to a wooded area. There, he said, they "hung me up by my feet with my head and shoulders on the ground."

He told police that "the short one asked the tall one if he were ready for him to work me over. 'Yeah, go ahead,' the tall one replied. So the short one started beating me up with that chain and something else I couldn't see.

"The tall one ripped my shirt off and took out his pen knife and began cutting on me. I could feel them cutting on my chest and they just kept on cutting and I could tell they were making some sort of design."

He said when the youths left, he freed himself and went to a night watchman's shack and telephoned police.

The FBI entered the case but no arrests had been made.

Senate Demos Team Up On Ike, Charging Lack Of Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats teamed up in the Senate Tuesday in charging that President Eisenhower has lacked leadership in world affairs.

The discussion revolved about a speech by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) calling for a U. S. drive to create "a world security system to end the arms race."

Humphrey, who is chairman of the Senate Disarmament subcommittee, proposed the establishment of a national peace agency to draw up a blueprint for such a system, including international police forces. And he offered a bill to create the office of assistant secretary of state for disarmament and atomic energy.

Humphrey's speech, which came in a respite during the civil rights debate, turned to a general discussion of the Eisenhower leadership.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), who like Humphrey is a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, got into the discussion at Humphrey's invitation.

What the nation needs, Symington said, is to "start establishing policies which create events, instead of letting events create the policies" in world affairs.

"Very little has been done since November 1958 except postpone," Symington said.

He suggested acidly that the policy seems to be one of "never to move unless we're shoved."

Eisenhower

guay, Eisenhower said the exceptions made headlines. But he dismissed them as minor incidents, lost in the massed welcome.

Still, he came back repeating what he said before he left and on his four-nation swing — that problems and serious misunderstandings still exist in the relations of the United States and its neighbors to the south.

He repeated an assurance this country stands firmly by its commitment under the Rio Treaty of 1947 to regard an attack on one American republic as an attack on all.

"This mutual security system, proved by time," he said, "should now enable some of the American republics to reduce expenditures for armaments, and thus make funds available for constructive purposes."

Many persons, Eisenhower said, fail to realize the United States is committed just as firmly as the other American republics to the principles of the 1947 pact.

He went on to list what he termed other misunderstandings:

That the United States had not accepted a policy of nonintervention until last year, that this government sometimes supports dictators, that the United States should take the initiative in correcting the view that economic advance in some American nations only makes the rich richer and the poor poorer.

"This," Eisenhower said of the latter point, "is a view fomented by Communists, but often repeated by well-meaning people."

2,000 Attend Requiem Mass For O'Conor

BALTIMORE (AP)—A requiem high mass for former U. S. senator and governor, Herbert R. O'Conor, was said Tuesday before an overflow crowd of 2,000 at the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen.

Ranking figures in the state's political, business and civic affairs paid respects to the man who rose from ward politics to an unparalleled role as a Democratic leader and public office holder in Maryland.

Among honorary pallbearers were Gov. Tawes, Mayor J. Harold Grady of Baltimore, Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckor, adjutant general of Maryland, and former Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin.

Others included Democrats O'Conor knew during his 1947 - 53 Senate term, Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson, Stuart Symington and Estes Kefauver. They left the Senate debate in Washington over civil rights to attend the services.

O'Conor, 63, died last Friday from a cerebral hemorrhage. He had suffered a heart condition for several years.

Funeral services were held at the O'Conor home Tuesday morning, then the flag-draped casket was borne into the new cathedral, which was dedicated last fall.

An honor guard of Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus carried the casket. O'Conor was a papal knight.

Archbishop Francis Keough pontificated the requiem mass.

In his eulogy, the Very Rev. Vincent F. Beatty, president of Loyola College, noted that O'Conor's political record has no parallel in Maryland history. He said the former state's attorney, attorney general, senator and two-term governor had given himself untiringly to the labors of public life.

But said Rev. Beatty, it was O'Connor's family that gave him his greatest inspiration. He recalled that O'Connor, the father of four sons and a daughter, had served as best man at the wedding of his youngest son 11 days ago.

O'Conor made his mark in politics early. At 25 he became an assistant state's attorney in Baltimore.

He successively served as people's counsel to the Public Service Commission, state's attorney and 1935-39 was attorney general of Maryland.

His record and sense of politics put him in the governor's chair in 1939 for two four-year terms and for a single Senate term 1947-53. Then he retired from public office to practice law.

Seven Children, Foster Mother Killed In Crash

BERLIN, Conn. (AP) — Seven school children and a foster mother were killed Tuesday by a passenger train that hurled their station wagon into an ice-covered pond.

The smashed automobile tumbled from the unprotected railroad crossing down an embankment and into the five-foot-deep waters of the pond.

The impact tossed four of the youngsters from the vehicle. One body was found on the embankment. Three others skidded over the ice on the pond.

Skin divers recovered the four other occupants of the station wagon from the pond's icy waters.

The victims were Emily Whitaker, 57, who with her husband had devoted almost 15 years to the care of unfortunate children; her godchild; and the six state wards who lived in the Whitaker home. Mrs. Whitaker and her wards were Negroes.

The scene of Connecticut's worst traffic accident was littered with torn schoolbooks, lunch boxes, bodies, and scraps of wreckage.

Mrs. Whitaker had been driving the youngsters to meet a school bus when the New Haven Railroad train, bound for New York from Springfield, Mass., crashed broadside into the station wagon at the snow-covered crossing.

Her husband, John, watched horrified from the kitchen window of their hilltop home only 500 yards away.

Motherwell Tells Jury Of Advances By Widow

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Soberly and quietly, Larry Lord Motherwell testified Tuesday that a tipsy Mrs. Pearl Putney tried to seduce him in a Marysville, Calif., motel the night of Aug. 14, 1958.

The 42-year-old Washington, D. C., construction worker, on trial for his life and charged with murdering the 72-year-old wealthy widow, said:

"I was taken aback. The idea of sex was vulgar to me, although I am no angel."

They had driven that day — the last she is known to have been seen alive — from Las Vegas, Nev., he said, and arrived in Marysville late in the evening. He had gone out to dinner alone and when he came back:

"Mrs. Putney declared herself. "She wanted me to kiss her ... She disrobed to the extent of being shady (he did not explain)... She made a few vulgar statements."

"She told me I was being paid enough to know she was a woman, a woman alive, and, in her opinion, attractive, that I wasn't such an angel that I didn't know she was a woman."

A year and a day later Mrs. Putney's scattered bones were found in the mountains near here.

Motherwell testified that after her advances he told her he would leave right then and return the money she had paid him for the trip across the country. But she said he could keep it and earn it by doing some errands for her after he dropped her at Las Vegas. He said they returned to Las Vegas the next day and he never saw her again.

Romanians Release Ex-AP Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Leonard Kirschen, former Associated Press correspondent in Bucharest who was arrested by Romanian authorities April 25, 1950, reported in a cable Tuesday he has been released. He said he returned to his Bucharest home Friday.

A Romanian citizen educated in Britain and Berlin, Kirschen was accused before a Communist court of spying for the United States and Britain. One witness said he gave information to the U.S. Embassy. There was a blackout on ensuing proceedings.

Summit Failure Would Be GOP Defeat, New C Of C Head Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new president of the United States Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday failure at the summit in May would damage Republican prospects in next November's U.S. elections.

"It's a Republican conference, no matter what anybody says," said Arthur H. Motley, president of Parade Publications, Inc., New York.

through abandoned workings to reach safety. "Sometimes we got down on our bellies," Carter said.

N. T. Camicio, vice president of operations for Island Creek in the Holden area, said the scene of the fire was about four miles underground from the shaft.

A spokesman said the frontal assault in the rescue effort would mean going through a section "that's pretty well filled with smoke."

Classes were held as usual at the Holden elementary school, a half mile from the mine. The fathers of more than a dozen of the 87 pupils were among those trapped.

"We thought it would be better," said Mrs. Udell Mays, the fifth grade teacher. "There was nothing we or the children could do to help. We just hoped and prayed."

Saying President Eisenhower should take some leading Democrats to the summit with him, Motley declared: "There are some damn good ones."

"But if the summit conference fails, it will be a Republican defeat," he added.

Motley, 59, met reporters at the same time his election was announced. He will take office May 4 at the chamber's annual meeting here, succeeding Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, Boston.

Eisenhower has indicated he will not invite any Democrats to the Paris East-West meeting on cold war problems.

Motley forecast a favorable year for business with record national output and income and reduced unemployment "despite the political uncertainties of an election year."

Motherwell Tells Jury Of Advances By Widow

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Soberly and quietly, Larry Lord Motherwell testified Tuesday that a tipsy Mrs. Pearl Putney tried to seduce him in a Marysville, Calif., motel the night of Aug. 14, 1958.

The 42-year-old Washington, D. C., construction worker, on trial for his life and charged with murdering the 72-year-old wealthy widow, said:

Motherwell testified that after her advances he told her he would leave right then and return the money she had paid him for the trip across the country. But she said he could keep it and earn it by doing some errands for her after he dropped her at Las Vegas. He said they returned to Las Vegas the next day and he never saw her again.

Romanians Release Ex-AP Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Leonard Kirschen, former Associated Press correspondent in Bucharest who was arrested by Romanian authorities April 25, 1960, reported in a cable Tuesday he has been released. He said he returned to his Bucharest home Friday.

A Romanian citizen educated in Britain and Berlin, Kirschen was accused before a Communist court of spying for the United States and Britain. One witness said he gave information to the U.S. Embassy. There was a blackout on ensuing proceedings.

ICBMs Fired In Tests Of Guidance Systems

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — (UPI)—America's Atlas and Titan intercontinental ballistic missiles soared to the edge of space Tuesday in tests of electronic "brains" designed to guide hydrogen warheads to enemy targets.

The 82-foot-tall Atlas, one of three U.S. ICBMs ready to do battle, carried an enemy - proof all-inertial guidance system as a "passenger" on a 6,300-mile flight to the south Atlantic.

About five hours later the 98-foot Titan—a "second generation" ICBM — was launched, but apparently fell short of its intended target area 3,000 miles away. Its second stage failed to ignite.

However, there were indications the radio - inertial guidance system aboard the missile worked properly during the first few minutes of flight — its key area.

It was scored as a "partial success" for the Titan.

Summit Failure Would Be GOP Defeat, New C Of C Head Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new president of the United States Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday failure at the summit in May would damage Republican prospects in next November's U.S. elections.

"It's a Republican conference, no matter what anybody says," said Arthur H. Motley, president of Parade Publications, Inc., New York.

through abandoned workings to reach safety. "Sometimes we got down on our bellies," Carter said.

N. T. Camicio, vice president of operations for Island Creek in the Holden area, said the scene of the fire was about four miles underground from the shaft.

A spokesman said the frontal assault in the rescue effort would mean going through a section "that's pretty well filled with smoke."

Classes were held as usual at the Holden elementary school, a half mile from the mine. The fathers of more than a dozen of the 87 pupils were among those trapped.

"We thought it would be better," said Mrs. Udell Mays, the fifth grade teacher. "There was nothing we or the children could do to help. We just hoped and prayed."

Saying President Eisenhower should take some leading Democrats to the summit with him, Motley declared: "There are some damn good ones."

"But if the summit conference fails, it will be a Republican defeat," he added.

Motley, 59, met reporters at the same time his election was announced. He will take office May 4 at the chamber's annual meeting here, succeeding Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, Boston.

Eisenhower has indicated he will not invite any Democrats to the Paris East-West meeting on cold war problems.

Motley forecast a favorable year for business with record national output and income and reduced unemployment "despite the political uncertainties of an election year."

NEW YORK (AP) — The poor behavior of stocks is having a dampening influence on business expectations, one Wall Street firm said Tuesday as the market declined for the seventh straight day.

"We appear to have been in one of those periods when the stock market has been influencing business more than business has been influencing the stock market," said W. E. Hutton & Co.

"Coordination between stock market trends and general business always is fleeting—especially over a month or two—but over a period of six to nine months the market and business are more likely to be 'in gear.'

"Recently the steels and the motors, it would seem, have been 'worse than the market' in spite of very good steel and automobile earnings in January.

"The investment community, right or wrong, apparently thinks both the steel industry and the automobile industry have been producing faster than their markets will accept their products."

Hutton considers the 590 - 600 area in the Dow Jones industrial average quite critical.

Bache & Co. said it concluded last September that the market had started formation of a major top and that action in the immediate future would be irregular.

"Further technical weakness in December caused us to re-emphasize this cautious attitude," it continued. "Therefore, to state that a bear market was signaled March 3 seems too pat a solution to a complicated problem and gives the appearance of locking the barn door after the prize horse has been stolen.

"In addition, when considering the dynamic nature of many individual stocks and the possibilities they present for short-term trading opportunities, it would be quite misleading to characterize the entire market with only one short phrase (bear market)."

Daly Goes To Court In Effort To Get On Both Md. Ballots

By The Associated Press

The first lawsuit of Maryland's young primary campaign developed Tuesday when Lar Daly went to court in order to get on the presidential ballot of both parties.

Daly, a Chicago furniture jobber who sometimes campaigns in an Uncle Sam costume, asked Anne Arundel County Circuit Court to order the secretary of state to accept his papers as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan had accepted the Chicagoan's papers and filing fee for the Democratic primary but refused to let him cross-file. Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert had issued an oral opinion that cross-filing, except in contests for judgeships, is illegal in Maryland.

Daly and Andrew J. Easter, a Baltimore draftsman who also has worn an Uncle Sam costume in previous unsuccessful campaigns, are the dark horses in a Democratic contest which also includes U. S. Sens. John F. Kennedy and Wayne Morse.

The court action by Daly came within 12 hours of the Monday midnight deadline for the filing of candidates, and the usual last-minute rush by scores of aspirants to submit their names. Unless they withdraw by next Monday midnight and retrieve their filing fees, their names will go on the May 17 ballot.

Among the surprises were the entry of Albert C. Wedemeyer, retired four-star Army general, into the Republican Sixth Congressional District race and of Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore lawyer and political gadfly, in both party primaries for nomination to the Supreme (Circuit) Bench.

In Baltimore City there was the usual late stampede for seats to the Democratic State Convention, which will be held within 30 days after the primary. In the Third District alone, 45 candidates filed to contest for the seven available seats.

Elsewhere, as in Wicomico and Worcester County, for example, no candidates filed, leaving the selection of state convention delegates up to the party state central committee.

Except for Democrat Thomas F. Johnson in the First District, all incumbent congressmen face opposition for Democratic renomination.

Four of them could find themselves in for rugged battles. These include Reps. Edward A. Garmatz, opposed by State Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli and four others in the Third; George H. Fallon, opposed only by former State Sen. Francis X. Dippel in the Fourth and Samuel N. Friedel, whose six opponents include Del. Maurice Cardin and Herbert R. O'Conor Jr., son of the late former governor and U. S. senator.

In the Fifth, Rep. Richard E. Lankford is opposed by two aspirants, including Edward J. Klima, hard-running Anne Arundel County commissioner. The other, weekly newspaper editor Ray Martin, was ordered arrested Tuesday on contempt of court charges.

Circuit Judge Matthew S. Evans said the charges stemmed from the failure of Martin, editor of the Anne Arundel County Star, to obey a court order to answer questions and to pay a $356 judgment to Sinclair Refining Co. in a Carroll County Circuit Court case.

Wedemeyer, onetime commander of U. S. armed forces in China during World War II, is one of four candidates in the Sixth District GOP primary.

A group of party leaders recently endorsed Del. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. in that race.

Man Sentenced In Rape Case

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday sentenced Gerald Ray Swanger, 22, to a term not to exceed two years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males on a charge of statutory rape.

The court was lenient in the sentence due to the extenuating circumstances. Swanger was arrested after a young girl was questioned concerning a paternity charge against another youth and told authorities of the incident with Swanger.

It was brought out that the incident took place in June of 1958 and Swanger has married since then.

Canada and the United States are the only countries in the world having a surplus rather than a shortage of food.

The TINY TABLET That COST OVER $1,000,000

A tiny tablet of a new "miracle drug" may well represent an initial cost of over a million dollars in research, testing and investment for commercial production.

This year alone, the American pharmaceutical industry will invest tens of millions of dollars in seeking the answers to unsolved diseases—in searching for even more "miraculous" drugs to prevent or cure illness.

The results may soon be contained in a tiny tablet of medicine—a priceless restorative of health—costing you only a few cents.

Jail Budget Causes Rift

During a discussion of the budget of Sheriff Paul Haberlein for the coming fiscal year a heated argument developed between the sheriff and Commissioner John T. Mason.

Mason had inquired about an estimate of the final five months of the current budget and what the amount would be. The sheriff said he did not consider it his duty to provide these figures.

"Why does the county have an auditor. Let the figures be prepared by that department," the sheriff replied.

Haberlein then told Mason he understood the commissoner (Mason) was in charge of the Court House and County Jail, but so far had never made an inspection of the lockup.

"That's your responsibility and there are repairs which should be made," the sheriff commented.

Commissioner John J. Rowan intervened to say that he had gone over the budget submitted by the sheriff and felt it was clear enough.

The atmosphere then changed and in a moderate discussion the sheriff said he had included an item for the employment of an investigator for his office. He said there is no equipment available such as fingerprinting devices and a qualified man would be needed. The proposal was made by the sheriff on the basis that the county board could accept the plan or reject it.

Plans Made For City Marble Tourney

With spring less than two weeks away, the Recreation Department announced yesterday plans are being formulated for one of the oldest and most popular seasonal activities — marble playing and the annual city tournament.

The Department announced it will conduct the City Marble Tournament again this year. More than 2,000 boys and girls participated in the activity each year.

The tournament was revived by the department last year with support and sponsorship of the Cumberland Lions Club. The tourney was originally sponsored by the Times-News and directed by J. William Hunt who is a member of the executive committee of the National Marbles Tournament.

Delbert Proudfoot, 14-year-old Fort Hill student, represented the city in the National Tourney at Asbury Park, N. J. last year. Proudfoot finished third in his league at the tourney. Runner-up last year to Proudfoot in the local play was 11-year-old Robert McRobie of Centre Street School.

All city schools cooperated last year in conducting elimination play and determining a school champion to participate in the citywide tournament. Sixteen schools were represented in the tournament at Gephart playground.

The Lions Club presented T shirts to school champions, awards to the four finalists and sent the champion to the National Tournament.

More Letters Received On Library Issue

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners is still receiving letters pro and con on the proposed county-wide library plan.

A petition signed by 64 persons, mostly residents of Cumberland, stated the signers were unalterably opposed to the library plan due to the cost involved.

An individual letter was received from Mrs. James Straw, LaVale, stating she was against the library plan because it would add more taxes to property owners who are burdened with the present tax rate. She also cited the expected costs of sewage disposal in the LaVale area and recent increase in water rates.

Four organizations wrote in support of the library plan. They are the Parkside School PTA and teachers, Gleaners Class of First Methodist Church of Frostburg, Lonaconing Homemakers Club and the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society.

The date for taking bids on the retarder tower and guard office by the B&O Railroad Company has been changed to March 11 at noon.

Bids will be received at the B&O regional engineer's office in Baltimore. Bidders on the project are by invitation and the firms which will submit estimates on the job are Consolidated Engineering Company, Kirby and McGuire, Inc., and The Lacchi Construction Company, all of Baltimore.

The retarder tower will be six stories high and will be used to direct cars into the westbound tracks under the classification system. The huge marshaling yards will be among the largest in the nation and biggest on the B&O system.

More Letters Received On Library Issue

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners is still receiving letters pro and con on the proposed county-wide library plan.

A petition signed by 64 persons, mostly residents of Cumberland, stated the signers were unalterably opposed to the library plan due to the cost involved.

An individual letter was received from Mrs. James Straw, LaVale, stating she was against the library plan because it would add more taxes to property owners who are burdened with the present tax rate. She also cited the expected costs of sewage disposal in the LaVale area and recent increase in water rates.

Four organizations wrote in support of the library plan. They are the Parkside School PTA and teachers, Gleaners Class of First Methodist Church of Frostburg, Lonaconing Homemakers Club and the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society.

Rickover Honored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, chief developer of the atomic submarine, has been chosen to receive the first annual Wendell L. Willkie public leadership award, it was announced Monday.

Meeting Tonight On Plant Progress

Business and professional residents of Allegany County are asked to attend a meeting today at 7:30 p. m. at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Garland L. Johnston, president of the Cumberland Industrial Development Company, will preside at the session.

The meeting is being called to outline the latest developments in current efforts to locate a shoe plant in Hyndman, Pa.

Financial plans and needs will be discussed at the session.

The CIDC has been cooperating in the negotiations which are being conducted by the Hyndman-Londonderry Industrial Corporation.

He doesn't believe in sitters. He claims people who have children should stay home with them or take them along.

This is all well and good for a man who is out of the house all day, but he doesn't understand that a woman MUST have a change of scenery. What do you suggest?—BEAT DOWN

DEAR BEAT: "Togetherness" can be overdone. Your children should learn to adjust to new situations and to people outside the family. A reliable sitter can be a welcome relief for the children and an angel of mercy to a mother such as you.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: The whole family reads your column and we are all it's time someone straightened mad at you. Recently someone out wrote in to complain that her husband was a "hard-headed Dutchman" because he wouldn't give her any spending money. It's time someone straightened out the age-old misconception. I trust you will straighten this out.

Hollanders are insulted and the expression "Dutch treat" which hints we are cheap. I the age-old misconception. trust you will straighten this out

From this error came the false notion that Hollanders are Dutchmen and then we got stuck with the expression "Dutch treat" are Dutch, not us. In fact the word is "Duits" meaning German.

From this error came the false notion that Hollanders are Dutchmen and then we got stuck with the expression "Dutch treat" which hints we are cheap. I trust you will straighten this out.

I polled my newspaper friends and they associate Dutchmen with tulips, cleanliness, windmills, wooden shoes, blue and white dishes and Queen Juliana. N one mentioned tight-fistedness.

DEAR ANN: I'm writing about my niece whose mother died when she was nine. Her father is a grand person and he's sick with grief over her behavior.

Several months ago (she was not yet 16) she ran off and married a boy 18, of whom none of us approved. When her father learned she was pregnant he annulled the marriage and sent her 2,000 miles away to a church-connected school with hospital facilities.

She agreed to put the baby up for adoption without seeing it because her boy friend was then making plans to accept a football scholarship and didn't show much interest in her or the expected child.

Recently the girl wrote to tell me she changed her mind. She has no intention of giving up her baby which is due in April. She plans to run away from the institution BEFORE the child is born, and meet her boy friend. She said, "We'll remarry and disappear until everything blows over."

The boy will tell us nothing but we know they are corresponding. My niece has money of her own, unfortunately. This boy is irresponsible and will leave her eventually — heartbroken and with the child to rear. What can we do to help her?—AUNT

DEAR AUNT: The girl is bitter, defiant and unstable. You can't police her forever. When she's of age she'll do as she pleases. Stand by, pick up the pieces and urge her to seek psychiatric help.

DEAR ANN: My husband is too much father, if you know what I mean. We were married in 1951 and I haven't had one night out alone with him in the last six years — since our first son was born.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — The date of "The Executioners," the suspense novel by John D. McDonald, has been set for fall production by Gregory Peck, who with Sy Bartlett, bought it some months ago. Goes without saying that this will be for Greg and Sy's independent company and released by Universal-International as a few independents and U-I are about the only set-ups to get clear sailing from the Actors Guild.

Greg is now in Greece making "Guns of Navarone" for Carl Foreman and Sy is in New York.

But they have activated "The Executioners" by signing James Webb to write the script. He did "Pork Chop Hill" which starred Greg and was produced by Sy.

Martha Hyer, who has been among the absent for a long time shooting "Mistress of the World" from Hong Kong to Berlin, sends word she isn't coming back to Hollywood. With conditions the way they are—why should she?

Martha, now taking a breather in St. Moaritz after the long schedule on "Mistress" cables that she starts work in April co-starring with Curt Jurgens in "The Royal Game." "Once again I go a 'travelin' to Vienna and Munich but these seem like sleeper jumps after the ground we covered on 'Mistress'," she says. Gerd Oswald will direct the "Royal Game" and while Martha didn't say, I believe it is a German production as Lucci Waldlightner, the producer, has made several good movies in Berlin.

Rhonda Fleming called to say au revoir. She opens tomorrow night at El Rancho Vegas for six weeks. "Beldon Katleman has promised me that the nudes will be covered," she said. "I certainly wouldn't want to be on the stage with all those naked women." Dick Shawn is also on the show. Rhonda said that this six weeks engagement came at a very good time, what with the strike.

Rhonda, who said she's going to get herself a rich, handsome man this leap year, has been dating very steadily with Stanley Stalford, president of the Fidelity Bank in Beverly Hills, and formerly wed to Lorraine Cugat. They were handholding at the Luau the night before Rhonda took off for Vegas.

I was wakened bright and early Saturday morning (the day I laughingly call my day off), to hear: "Otto Preminger calling from Germany. We'll call back in 15 minutes. Will you be ready?" I said I would. In 20 minutes the call came — "Mr. Preminger is on a plane heading for Israel and wants to talk to you."

I hung on for half an hour—no Otto, no voice. Finally, I hung up. Then several hours later came a call, "Mr. Preminger will talk to you now. It's very difficult to connect with the plane, and it's getting farther and farther away."

All I could hear when the connection was finally made was: "Louella, this is Otto. I'm on my way to Israel and am on a plane." Then not another word. So I guess these telephones in airplanes haven't yet been perfected too well.

Sorry to miss the visit of Dino de Laurentiis and Ralph Serpe. They brought along the director of "The Great War" for which all three have been beating the tom toms. It's up for an Academy Award in Hollywood.

Dino has great charm. I saw him with his beautiful wife Sylvania Mangano on "Person to Person." Their home in Rome is a palace and their gardens a delight. But best of all were the three children—the second daughter is a raving beauty. Sylvana said in her interview she is retiring next year, but her husband says "no." She is in his movie "Jovanko" with her hair cut short and it's just starting to grow out—but very becoming to her.

A wail from Gay Humberstone Robinson saying —"knowing that you pride yourself on being a fair and accurate reporter, I think you should have my side of the story concerning the custody of my daughter Robin. I was informed that last week's court hearing was just a formality on the part of my ex-husband (Lucky Humberstone) and my lawyers for the purpose of obtaining a postponement of our custody case until an appointed court investigator was able to come to Connecticut. His purpose—to inspect at first hand our home in Greenwich where Robin would live as well as the school she would attend.

"I was not allowed to testify. I want you to know that I love my child like any mother, and want her with me. I have instructed my lawyers to appeal the decision and hope to have the opportunity of appearing before the California court."

Water Use Is Up

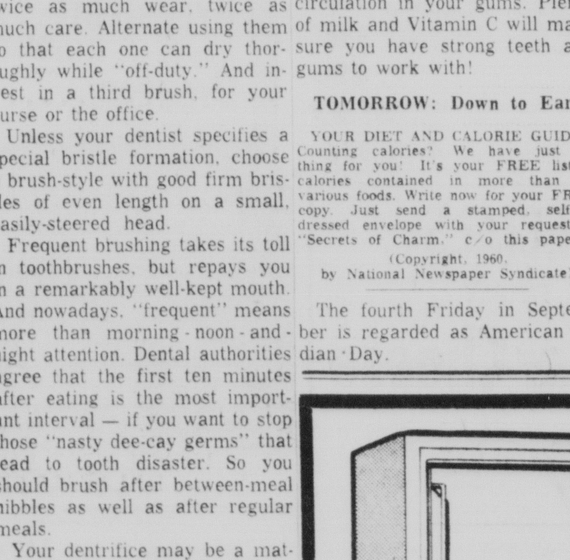

Water consumption averaged 14,917,000 gallons daily last week, Franklin J. Blaney, superintendent of the Lake Gordon filter plant, told the Mayor and Council Monday. This is about 3,000,000 gallons a day more than last year's consumption. Water was still flowing over both city dams on Sunday.

Brushing teeth pays off in beauty!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

One Brush-Off That Means Beauty

Isn't it time you retired that toothbrush . . . for the sake of your own social security? When bristles become soft and matted, worn away or loose, give your old brush the brush-off . . . and replace it with a pair!

Two toothbrushes will give you twice as much wear, twice as much care. Alternate using them so that each one can dry thoroughly while "off-duty." And invest in a third brush, for your purse or the office.

Unless your dentist specifies a special bristle formation, choose a brush-style with good firm bristles of even length on a small, easily-steered head.

Frequent brushing takes its toll in toothbrushes, but repays you in a remarkably well-kept mouth. And nowadays, "frequent" means more than morning-noon-and-night attention. Dental authorities agree that the first ten minutes after eating is the most important interval — if you want to stop those "nasty dee-cay germs" that lead to tooth disaster. So you should brush after between-meal nibbles as well as after regular meals.

Your dentrifice may be a matter of taste . . . but your technique should copy standard rules. Bursh the teeth in the direction they grow . . . away from the gums. Vibrate the brush to get the particles out of the crannies and crevices. Don't swig your brush ACROSS your teeth: you'll just plant the particles deeper, and you may injure your gums and tooth enamel.

Brushing with water is better than no brushing at all. And when you are caught brushless, at a restaurant or a party, reach for the simplest safeguard as soon as you can—a glass of water. Swish the water around in your mouth, to unloose at least some of the trapped bits of food.

Remember, what you eat can also treat you to cleaner, healthier teeth, too. Fibrous, chewy foods, raw fruits and vegetables, and whole grains are remarkably effective in clearing tooth crevices and grooming gums. Design your daily diet to include an apple or a raw carrot. Let your teeth tackle foods that will give them a workout and stimulate circulation in your gums. Plenty of milk and Vitamin C will make sure you have strong teeth and gums to work with!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — The date of "The Executioners," the suspense novel by John D. McDonald, has been set for fall production by Gregory Peck, who with Sy Bartlett, bought it some months ago. Goes without saying that this will be for Greg and Sy's independent company and released by Universal-International as a few independents and U-I are about the only set-ups to get clear sailing from the Actors Guild.

Greg is now in Greece making "Guns of Navarone" for Carl Foreman and Sy is in New York.

But they have activated "The Executioners" by signing James Webb to write the script. He did "Pork Chop Hill" which starred Greg and was produced by Sy.

Martha Hyer, who has been among the absent for a long time shooting "Mistress of the World" from Hong Kong to Berlin, sends word she isn't coming back to Hollywood. With conditions the way they are—why should she?

Martha, now taking a breather in St. Moaritz after the long schedule on "Mistress" cables that she starts work in April co-starring with Curt Jurgens in "The Royal Game." "Once again I go a 'travelin' to Vienna and Munich but these seem like sleeper jumps after the ground we covered on 'Mistress'," she says. Gerd Oswald will direct the "Royal Game" and while Martha didn't say, I believe it is a German production as Lucci Waldlightner, the producer, has made several good movies in Berlin.

Rhonda Fleming called to say au revoir. She opens tomorrow night at El Rancho Vegas for six weeks. "Beldon Katleman has promised me that the nudes will be covered," she said. "I certainly wouldn't want to be on the stage with all those naked women." Dick Shawn is also on the show. Rhonda said that this six weeks engagement came at a very good time, what with the strike.

Rhonda, who said she's going to get herself a rich, handsome man this leap year, has been dating very steadily with Stanley Stalford, president of the Fidelity Bank in Beverly Hills, and formerly wed to Lorraine Cugat. They were handholding at the Luau the night before Rhonda took off for Vegas.

I was wakened bright and early Saturday morning (the day I laughingly call my day off), to hear: "Otto Preminger calling from Germany. We'll call back in 15 minutes. Will you be ready?" I said I would. In 20 minutes the call came — "Mr. Preminger is on a plane heading for Israel and wants to talk to you."

I hung on for half an hour—no Otto, no voice. Finally, I hung up. Then several hours later came a call, "Mr. Preminger will talk to you now. It's very difficult to connect with the plane, and it's getting farther and farther away."

All I could hear when the connection was finally made was: "Louella, this is Otto. I'm on my way to Israel and am on a plane." Then not another word. So I guess these telephones in airplanes haven't yet been perfected too well.

Sorry to miss the visit of Dino de Laurentiis and Ralph Serpe. They brought along the director of "The Great War" for which all three have been beating the tom toms. It's up for an Academy Award in Hollywood.

Dino has great charm. I saw him with his beautiful wife Sylvania Mangano on "Person to Person." Their home in Rome is a palace and their gardens a delight. But best of all were the three children—the second daughter is a raving beauty. Sylvana said in her interview she is retiring next year, but her husband says "no." She is in his movie "Jovanko" with her hair cut short and it's just starting to grow out—but very becoming to her.

A wail from Gay Humberstone Robinson saying —"knowing that you pride yourself on being a fair and accurate reporter, I think you should have my side of the story concerning the custody of my daughter Robin. I was informed that last week's court hearing was just a formality on the part of my ex-husband (Lucky Humberstone) and my lawyers for the purpose of obtaining a postponement of our custody case until an appointed court investigator was able to come to Connecticut. His purpose—to inspect at first hand our home in Greenwich where Robin would live as well as the school she would attend.

"I was not allowed to testify. I want you to know that I love my child like any mother, and want her with me. I have instructed my lawyers to appeal the decision and hope to have the opportunity of appearing before the California court."

Water Use Is Up

Water consumption averaged 14,917,000 gallons daily last week, Franklin J. Blaney, superintendent of the Lake Gordon filter plant, told the Mayor and Council Monday. This is about 3,000,000 gallons a day more than last year's consumption. Water was still flowing over both city dams on Sunday.

Brushing teeth pays off in beauty!

Secrets Of Charm

One Brush-Off That Means Beauty

Isn't it time you retired that toothbrush . . . for the sake of your own social security? When bristles become soft and matted, worn away or loose, give your old brush the brush-off . . . and replace it with a pair!

Two toothbrushes will give you twice as much wear, twice as much care. Alternate using them so that each one can dry thoroughly while "off-duty." And invest in a third brush, for your purse or the office.

Unless your dentist specifies a special bristle formation, choose a brush-style with good firm bristles of even length on a small, easily-steered head.

Frequent brushing takes its toll in toothbrushes, but repays you in a remarkably well-kept mouth. And nowadays, "frequent" means more than morning-noon-and-night attention. Dental authorities agree that the first ten minutes after eating is the most important interval — if you want to stop those "nasty dee-cay germs" that lead to tooth disaster. So you should brush after between-meal nibbles as well as after regular meals.

Your dentrifice may be a matter of taste . . . but your technique should copy standard rules. Bursh the teeth in the direction they grow . . . away from the gums. Vibrate the brush to get the particles out of the crannies and crevices. Don't swig your brush ACROSS your teeth: you'll just plant the particles deeper, and you may injure your gums and tooth enamel.

Brushing with water is better than no brushing at all. And when you are caught brushless, at a restaurant or a party, reach for the simplest safeguard as soon as you can—a glass of water. Swish the water around in your mouth, to unloose at least some of the trapped bits of food.

Remember, what you eat can also treat you to cleaner, healthier teeth, too. Fibrous, chewy foods, raw fruits and vegetables, and whole grains are remarkably effective in clearing tooth crevices and grooming gums. Design your daily diet to include an apple or a raw carrot. Let your teeth tackle foods that will give them a workout and stimulate circulation in your gums. Plenty of milk and Vitamin C will make sure you have strong teeth and gums to work with!

Slack Season

When others are looking for robins, I look for the announcement of award luncheons. When they start passing out awards, spring can't be far behind. Already they've handed out the Sylvania awards. The Emmys and the Peabodys lie ahead. What kind of season has it been? It's not been a bad season. There's been plenty to look at, heaven knows, but the best things in it were written by people named Somerset Maugham ("Moon and Sixpence") and Edith Wharton ("Ethan Frome") who are not fresh youngsters.

It's not, in short, been a very creative season. The most original new show was "Twilight Zone" which has had trouble attracting views. The new dramas have been notably weak, especially on Playhouse 90, of which we once expected so much. There hasn't even been a quiz show of any startling originality. The only new personalities of any interest have been kids (Dennis the Menace, and that beatnik kid on "Dobie Gillis"). The other "new" personalities like "Mr. Lucky" are strictly imitations of Cary Grant.

We can't seem to produce new plays, new ideas, fresh personalities. But then I look around me into other fields and it occurs to me that this phenomenon is not isolated to television. This has been one of the worst seasons Broadway has had in many many a moon. Even those plays with undoubted merit are not freshly minted. "The Miracle Worker" is a case history — touching, dramatically satisfying, emotionally enriching — but still a case history. "Fiorello" borrows its most explosive moments from newspaper files. "Gypsy," "Andersonville Trial," "Sound of Music," all deal with real rather than imaginary people and such shows as "Thurber Carnival" and "Take Me Along" are reworkings of old material. Of fresh creative work, there are only Paddy Chayevsky's "Tenth Man" and Lillian Hellman's "Toys in the Attic."

This failure of creativity afflicts almost any field you examine. The movie houses are having a great day re-issuing old movies. Around the corner from my house is "From Here to Eternity." Elsewhere they are reissuing "On the Waterfront" and "Caine Mutiny." And, of course, one of the biggest hits of the new pictures is "Ben-Hur" which is hardly a new idea. And, God knows, they have not had a new personality in the motion picture business since roughly the twelfth century. Every movie marquee has either Cary Grant, Frank Sinatra, or Tony Curtis emblazoned all over it. I'm not only sick of those faces but of those names. I keep wishing just once they'd misspell them. What would happen to the picture business if Cary Grant died, you suppose?

Maybe we've just forgotten how to create. In the book business—no reason why I should let them escape unscathed — the number one bestseller again reflecting our passion for biography, is Moss Hart's "Act One."

People still write novels — the creative urge is not dead, just dying — but most of the fiction on the best seller list is utter trash.

I don't suppose it should be a great comfort to those of us stuck with the television dodge but the fact is that conditions in her sister arts are not much better and may conceivably be worse. The theater, for instance, would have been in terrible shape without the assistance of some refugees from television. "The Miracle Worker" was a Playhouse 90 script and Paddy Chayevsky, television's best known minnesinger.

Another, and to me thoroughly alarming, failure of creativity is in the field of popular music. All the old songs are coming back, including some great old ones, but they were all writ thirty years ago or more. The singers are new but the songs are still "Say It Isn't So," "Where or When," or "Among My Souvenirs." America led the popular music field for so many years we assumed we always would. But where are the new songwriters? Certainly there are none around of the stature of George Gershwin, Irving Berlin, or Cole Porter.

In the whole field of American creativity, there seems to be a great pause. Television's lack is only one aspect of it.

Slack Season

When others are looking for robins, I look for the announcement of award luncheons. When they start passing out awards, spring can't be far behind. Already they've handed out the Sylvania awards. The Emmys and the Peabodys lie ahead. What kind of season has it been? It's not been a bad season. There's been plenty to look at, heaven knows, but the best things in it were written by people named Somerset Maugham ("Moon and Sixpence") and Edith Wharton ("Ethan Frome") who are not fresh youngsters.

It's not, in short, been a very creative season. The most original new show was "Twilight Zone" which has had trouble attracting views. The new dramas have been notably weak, especially on Playhouse 90, of which we once expected so much. There hasn't even been a quiz show of any startling originality. The only new personalities of any interest have been kids (Dennis the Menace, and that beatnik kid on "Dobie Gillis"). The other "new" personalities like "Mr. Lucky" are strictly imitations of Cary Grant.

We can't seem to produce new plays, new ideas, fresh personalities. But then I look around me into other fields and it occurs to me that this phenomenon is not isolated to television. This has been one of the worst seasons Broadway has had in many many a moon. Even those plays with undoubted merit are not freshly minted. "The Miracle Worker" is a case history — touching, dramatically satisfying, emotionally enriching — but still a case history. "Fiorello" borrows its most explosive moments from newspaper files. "Gypsy," "Andersonville Trial," "Sound of Music," all deal with real rather than imaginary people and such shows as "Thurber Carnival" and "Take Me Along" are reworkings of old material. Of fresh creative work, there are only Paddy Chayevsky's "Tenth Man" and Lillian Hellman's "Toys in the Attic."

This failure of creativity afflicts almost any field you examine. The movie houses are having a great day re-issuing old movies. Around the corner from my house is "From Here to Eternity." Elsewhere they are re-issuing "On the Waterfront" and "Caine Mutiny." And, of course, one of the biggest hits of the new pictures is "Ben-Hur" which is hardly a new idea. And, God knows, they have not had a new personality in the motion picture business since roughly the twelfth century. Every movie marquee has either Cary Grant, Frank Sinatra, or Tony Curtis emblazoned all over it. I'm not only sick of those faces but of those names. I keep wishing just once they'd misspell them. What would happen to the picture business if Cary Grant died, you suppose?

Maybe we've just forgotten how to create. In the book business—no reason why I should let them escape unscathed — the number one bestseller again reflecting our passion for biography, is Moss Hart's "Act One."

People still write novels — the creative urge is not dead, just dying — but most of the fiction on the best seller list is utter trash.

I don't suppose it should be a great comfort to those of us stuck with the television dodge but the fact is that conditions in her sister arts are not much better and may conceivably be worse. The theater, for instance, would have been in terrible shape without the assistance of some refugees from television. "The Miracle Worker" was a Playhouse 90 script and Paddy Chayevsky, television's best known minnesinger.

Another, and to me thoroughly alarming, failure of creativity is in the field of popular music. All the old songs are coming back, including some great old ones, but they were all writ thirty years ago or more. The singers are new but the songs are still "Say It Isn't So," "Where or When," or "Among My Souvenirs." America led the popular music field for so many years we assumed we always would. But where are the new songwriters? Certainly there are none around of the stature of George Gershwin, Irving Berlin, or Cole Porter.

In the whole field of American creativity, there seems to be a great pause. Television's lack is only one aspect of it.

Doctor's Combination of Ingredients Stops Stomach Gas Before It Starts

Buffalo, N.Y. (Special)—Thousands of people who suffered for years from gassy stomach, heartburn, belching after meals and other symptoms of acid indigestion now report wonderful relief, thanks to a remarkable formula developed by a prominent doctor and known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Containing not just one or two, but a special combination of 7 ingredients, this famous medicine is designed to stop stomach gas before it even starts.

Instead of upsetting the delicate acid-balance of the stomach, as too frequent use of soda and alkalizers often does, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery actually promotes more normal stomach activity.

Taken regularly, it tones up your digestive system and helps you avoid gas pains, heartburn and sour stomach. Once your stomach is working properly, you can eat what you like without fear of distress.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped so many people that over 38 million bottles have been sold. Get it at your druggist's today in liquid or tablets. Your money back if not entirely satisfied.

Preston Coke Co. Classified Utility

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —The State Supreme Court Tuesday affirmed a Public Service Commission order classifying Preston County Coke Co. a utility.

The high court ruled that a coal or coke company that devotes some of its facilities for the production and sale of electricity to the general public comes under the classification of a public utility.

The coke firm sells the electricity to the Preston County Light & Power Co. and asked for the classification so it could apply for an increase in the rates it charges the power firm.

The power company objected to the request, maintaining the coke firm must have more customers than just the power company. The PSC said that electricity produced by the coke company is distributed to the general public.

Bruceton Mills Osteopath Wins Legal Round

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (UPI) — Dr. Frank A. Wallington, Bruceton Mills osteopathic physician, won the first round Tuesday in his legal fight for right to practice in a hospital here.

Preston County Circuit Judge Melvin C. Snyder issued a temporary injunction prohibiting Preston County Memorial Hospital from forcing Wallington to vacate space where he had been practicing in the hospital.

The temporary injunction expires April 30, at which time Snyder may rule on Wallington's petition for a permanent injunction against the hospital's board of trustees.

A co - defendant in the action is the national Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, Chicago, which revoked accreditation of the hospital here after the board last fall granted Wallington authority to practice here.

The trustees said it understood the commission had removed its ban against allowing osteopathic physicians to practice in hospitals.

But when the trustees formally informed the commission that Wallington had been admitted, the hospital's accreditation was abruptly withdrawn. The board then notified Wallington that he would have to leave the hospital.

Wallington is the first to go to court in an effort to gain the right to practice in a hospital, same as medical doctors. He and other osteopathic doctors maintain they have as much right as a medical doctor to practice in a hospital operated with public funds.

The outcome of the case here will have far - reaching effects throughout the state. The State Supreme Court probably will ultimately make the final decision.

A demurrer to Wallington's petition has been filed on behalf of the hospital board by Preston Prosecutor James D. Daly.

Among other things, Daly maintained that the trustees have the authority to determine who may be granted the privilege of practicing in the hospital and that no one, including a medical doctor, may do so without approval of the board.

Thus if it chooses not to grant Wallington such rights, the board is within its authority, Daley said.

Crop Reports Guarded As Closely As State Secrets

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The clock's second hand sweeps around to half a minute before 3 p.m. A man watches and says: "Get Ready."

The clock hangs on the wall of a small room in the Agriculture Department's two-block - square South Building here. A few feet from the wall, four reporters stand along a white line painted across the floor. They take their eyes from the clock and fasten them on open - fronted telephone booths six feet ahead. In each booth, an open phone line connects to a press association or newspaper office.

There are perhaps 20 people crowded into the small room. They are as quiet as the hand of the electric clock as it slides toward 3 p.m.

"Go"

An Agriculture Department official watches the hand reach the top of the clock. At that exact moment he says, "Go."

That word releases to the nation and the world another of the Agriculture Department's Crop Reporting Board reports on items like the size of crops, farm prices and crop acreages.

Five seconds before the word is spoken, you couldn't buy the information in one of those reports for a million dollars. Thirty seconds later the key figures have been flashed on news wires to every part of the nation and the information is available free to everyone.

The regular crop reports are a vital link in the nation's food and fiber economy. Farmers, food processors, railroads, truckers—these and others need accurate reports on coming crops to plan the production and handling of the nation's food supply. Consumers find many of the reports valuable because they supply tips on when particular foods will be plentiful and cheap or scarce and expensive.

Guarded Secrets

The crop reports are closely-guarded secrets until the moment of release because advance information could allow men "in the know" to reap huge profits on the speculative commodity trading exchanges.

More than half a century ago, before the Crop Reporting Board's present procedures were adopted, there was a leak. An agriculture department official was reported to have used a window-shade signal to pass a cotton crop figure to a confederate outside. The official's share of the profits made by using the information on the cotton futures market was more than $70,000.

When the facts unfolded during a trial, Congress ordered the department to keep its reports secret until release time. Since then there has been no known leak through the security system that department officials call "the lockup."

Begins With Questionnaires

The system begins when questionnaires are mailed periodically to about 600,000 volunteer farmer crop reporters. Their reports go to 42 Crop Reporting Board field offices covering 49 states (all except Alaska).

State officials make up crop estimates and mail them to Washington. For major "speculative" crops, these letters go to a special double-locked mailbox in the Agriculture Department's headquarters.

Then, on the day the report is to be prepared, begins the drama of the lockup.

Early that morning guards escort two men to the mailbox. One is a representative of the secretary of agriculture, another is the chairman of the Crop Reporting Board. Each has a key to one of the two locks on the mailbox.

The men empty the mailbox and walk to the Crop Board's offices across the street. When they and their colleagues are inside, the entire office wing is sealed off. Doors are locked, telephones disconnected, windows sealed by closing and locking a special set of venetian blinds.

Nobody Gets Out

Inside the locked wing, statisticians study the state figures, evaluate them and prepare final estimates. Nobody, as a general rule, gets out.

Some years ago, former Agriculture Secretary Arthur M. Hyde came to the wing early to sign the report and tried to leave immediately afterward. He, too, had to sit and wait until 3 p.m.

Sometimes there are exceptions. An official stricken with appendicitis was allowed to go to the department infirmary. But a guard went with him and stayed at his side until 3 p.m.

A few minutes before release time, the door to the locked wing is opened for board Chairman Sterling R. Newell and a few of his aides. Newell comes out, carrying mimeographed copies of the report for the press, and crosses a hall into the room where reporters wait.

It is a walk of just a few steps. Newell takes those steps "looking neither to right nor left and speaking to no one nor acknowledging any greeting," under his rigid instructions. He places copies of the reports face down beside the reporters' telephones and steps back to await the word "go" that sends the newsmen bolting.

Plans Being Made For Art Meeting

Theodore P. Foote, supervisor of art education in Allegany County public schools, is helping to complete plans for the 44th convention of the Eastern Arts Association to be held at the Sheraton Hotel, Philadelphia, April 2-6.

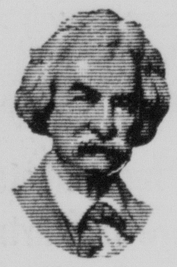

As chairman of the registration committee, Mr. Foote is responsible for arranging the details for the records of attendance and distribution of programs, badges, and supplementary material. He is a member of the governing council of the association.

About 1,200 art teachers and supervisors from schools and colleges in 13 states are expected to attend the convention to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the organization.

Gets Extension

The Mayor and Council granted Simon K. Carroll, superintendent of water maintenance and distribution, permission Monday to continue working for the city for another year. He was 65 in February.

A Wealth Of New Ideas Each Year

One of the oldest bureaus of the United States government is the Patent Office. Started in 1791, first as an independent agency, next as a division of the Department of State, and later as a segment of the Interior and Commerce Departments, the Patent Office is a primary administrator of laws safeguarding the genius of Americans who make use of the powers of ingenuity to develop something new.

As guardians of man's right to the rewards of his own inventiveness, U. S. patent laws deserve a great amount of respect. The Patent Office has been largely ignored when plaudits are handed out to agencies and organizations helpful in developing the high economic level of the U. S. What would have been the course of action taken by the holders of many millions of patents had they not been assured of protection against theft of their designs?

In addition to safeguarding inventive ingenuity, the Patent Office performs many other vital functions in the world of business and economic drive. It acts as a clearing house for information of all types, including complete descriptions of patented items. From this information further ideas are developed, patented and promoted. More products constantly stream from those already devised, in an endless cycle of perfection.

As in any other endeavor, no invention ever reaches the ultimate. There are always refinements to be made, modifications for varying circumstances, and finally complete replacement because of continued refinements elsewhere. Inventive genius did not die with Edison.

The number of patent requests increases each year, insuring the world of a wealth of new ideas.

Sugar And Cuba

Castro is beginning to feel the pinch. Otherwise, he would not have tried to bind our hands prior to a conference on outstanding difficulties.

From the authoritative "McCarthy Sugar Report," I take these figures which ought to make an American think:

"To Russia— 1 million metric tons at $3.10 per 100 lbs. = $ 68,342,000
To the U.S.— 1 million metric tons at $5.10 per 100 lbs. = $112,434,000

Thus Russia gets Cuban sugar cheaper than the U. S. by $44,092,000.

"(The top world spot price this week was $3.10 per 100 pounds (F.O.B.) (Cuba), and U.S. spot on a comparable basis F.O.B. Cuba was $5.10).

"Actually, of the first one million tons, Russia bought 575,000 tons at a lower level than the indicated $3.10 price above. She bought last September 230,000 tons at $2.905 and on February 5 of this year 345,000 tons at $2.78 per 100 pounds. These sugars will go into the deal as part of the 1960 one million tons since they were purchased for shipment this year.

"As a matter of record Russia always buys sugar from Cuba at a discount under the spot price. In fact, no other country in the world since Castro became Cuba's dictator has bought sugar for less than Russia. Russia is the fair-haired boy."

Obviously, it makes no sense for the United States to pay more for Cuban sugar than Russia pays, or than any other country pays. Why must we always be suckers?

But it is not only sugar that we buy from Cuba at a subsidy price that comes out of the pockets of the American taxpayer. We also give Cuba a direct military subsidy of $543,000. This money is military assistance to Castro, for the training of jet fliers. He could use those fliers against the United States. Do we have to subsidize our enemies?

When we pay more for sugar than the world price, we are paying a subsidy. It is true that some of that money goes to American companies in Cuba which employ Cuban labor. Since the first Sugar Act of 1934, the United States has given Cuba a higher quota for the import of sugar that has amounted annually to 375,000 tons.

So advantageous has been the quota and the subsidy that a number of American companies have found it beneficial to invest in Cuba. All their properties are now imperilled by Castro policies.

There is a tendency on the part of some businessmen and members of Congress to oppose any action about either the quota or the subsidy at the present time, on the general ground that Castro will come to his senses and that then the American companies that do business in Cuba will continue to benefit by quota and subsidy. They feel that a subsidy once removed will never be reinstated. They are undoubtedly right, as there is a growing opposition to subsidies which seem to be unnecessary in a rising market.

Those who favor doing nothing about Castro have learned nothing from 40 years of experience. A revolution, such as the Castro movement in Cuba, that is, a social revolution, does not recede unless put down. There is too much to loot for those in power to give way unless they cannot hold up.

Cuba is not Russia. It is a minor country with small economic strength or potential. Its blackmail prospects are excellent because of its proximity to the United States, but the only way to get rid of a blackmailer is to knock his teeth out so that he cannot put the bite on.

Certain figures in the McCarthy Sugar Report are worth quoting in this connection:

"On September 1, start of the new crop year world stock was 12,541,000 metric tons. World production is estimated at 48,900,000 tons and consumption at 50,317,000. Thus world stock on August 31, 1960 will be 11,000,000. While the stock figure will be less than the 12,541,000 tons of the previous year it will be more than the 10,071,000 on hand September 1, 1958. A drought in Europe cut into estimated production.

"Of the total world production Russia will make an estimated 5,880,000 tons against 6,260,000 in the previous year. This is a post-war step-up in production from 2,500,000 tons in 1937-38 and is more than Cuba will produce . . ."

There is no shortage of sugar and the United States need take none at all from Cuba.

Big Contributors Get Early Start In New Hampshire's Primary Vote

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Most interesting backstage aspect of the New Hampshire primary is that although Vice President Nixon carefully stayed out, his financial organization carefully sent $12,556 in and most of it came from big business GOP contributors outside New Hampshire. In fact, it cam. from the same oil and banking families which have backed Nixon so generously in the past.

Mrs. Katherine Dulin Folger, who is married to Clifford Folger, U. S. ambassador to Belgium, sent $1,500 up to Nixon to make sure he would roll up a big vote. The Folger family contributed $11,500 to Nixon and Eisenhower in 1956, following which Folger was given one of the more important ambassadorships, despite the fact that the Dow Chemical heir, Fred Alger, then ambassador, wanted to remain on.

Folger is an investment banker, a director of the big Hiram Walker whisky combine, of Deep Rock Oil, International Business Machines, and Burlington Mills, the giant textile firm which has had antitrust troubles with the Justice Department.

Other generous contributions were sent to Nixon in New Hampshire by Roy Merritt of Coral Gables, Fla., $3,000, and Mrs. Clive Runnels of Bay City, Texas, $1,000. In 1956, Mr. and Mrs. Runnels were also generous contributors to Eisenhower and Nixon.

The Generous Pews

But by far the greatest Nixon largesse sent to New Hampshire came from the Pew family of Philadelphia, chief owners of the Sun Oil Company and the Sun Shipbuilding Company.

In the 1956 election the Pew family was the second highest contributor to Ike and Dick, coming through with a grand total of $216,800. They were topped only by the du Pont's $248,423. Even the Rockefellers rated lower, with only $152,604. For the past two decades, the Pew family — including brothers, sisters, sons and cousins—have been carefully spreading their contributions over the entire USA. When GOP fund-raisers got hard up they could always depend on the Pews.

Mary Ethel Pew, for instance, sister of Joe Pew, sent $1,250 out to Montana to defeat Sen. Mike Mansfield in 1952; $1,000 to Idaho in 1956 to re-elect Sen. Herman Welker; $1,000 to South Dakota in 1944 to help Sen. Harlem Bushfield.

This year they got off to a good generous start in New Hampshire, where Joe Pew sent Nixon $1,500, his son sent another $1,500, Mary Ethel Pew sent $1,500, and Mabel Pew sent $1,500.

Note — The Senate has now passed a clean elections bill which Speaker Sam Rayburn is sitting on. He doesn't like the requirement that all contributions in primary elections must be recorded. At present, New Hampshire and most Northern states require publication which is why the Pews' contributions are public knowledge. But Southern states don't. Good old Sam is delighted to have Northern Republican contributions published but not those in the South.

Blocking The Watchdogs

It hasn't been advertised, but some interesting byplay has taken place inside the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee involving protection for big campaign contributors.

Last fall, after Congress voted to give the radio and TV networks more freedom regarding equal time for political candidates, wise Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington appointed a "freedom-of-the-airways" watchdog subcommittee to make sure there was not too much political favoritism on the networks.

Magnuson knew that network executives had been openly, blatantly one-sided in the past. In contributions alone, CBS executives contributed $13,600 to the Republicans, none to the Democrats, on top of which they arbitrarily refused to show part of the Democratic film at its National Convention in Chica .

NBC executives also tossed $3,500 into the Republican kitty, none to the Democrats; Storer Broadcasting $9,300 to the Republicans, none to the Democrats; Westinghouse $3,400 to the GOP, $500 to the Democrats; Crosley Broadcasting gave $4,500 to the Republicans, only $500 to the Democrats; while ABC gave $500 to the GOP, none to the Democrats.

So Senator Magnuson appointed Senators Yarborough of Texas and McGee of Wyoming, Democrats, with Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Republican, to keep an eye on the political partiality of the networks.

However, it so happens that Scott's biggest campaign contributor is the Pew family of Pennsylvania. It also happens that the Pew family's Sun Oil Company sponsors a program, "Three Star Extra," which pours adroitly slanted news out to the listening public, five days a week, 52 weeks of the year. It's far more effective than the $216,000 contributed by the Pew family to the GOP—and all tax-deductible as a business expense.

So Republican members of the Interstate Commerce Committee are now deathly afraid Magnuson's committee will probe the lopsided news and contributions of various network executives, including those of the Pew family. So they've been shrewdly blocking any funds for the watchdog committee. Cooperating with them has been Democratic Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island who is supposed to probe TV on another committee but is doing very little about it.

Kennedy Seen Well In Front In Democrat Race

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Lots of people think the Democratic National Convention will start in July — but actually it's going on now. The lining-up of delegations is invisible to the naked eye as leader after leader makes promises that on such and such a ballot he will transfer his support to another candidate.

Today, on the basis of precedent, it looks like Senator John Kennedy is well on the way to getting the nomination. His strength is, of course, often discounted, mostly by those who favor other candidates.

The situation very much resembles the contest for the Republican nomination that Herbert Hoover won in 1928. Almost everybody at the time thought that Mr. Hoover had substantial strength, but the professionals in the political ranks didn't think he could get anything like a majority of the delegates. In fact, leaders of the big organizations in the East who had dominated the 1920 and 1924 Republican conventions made their plans on the theory that someone who hadn't been as prominent in the public eye as Mr. Hoover could easily take the prize at the 1928 convention.

But the day the conclave opened at Kansas City the professionals got a shock. They learned that the Hoover forces really had lined up a majority of delegates, and it took only a single ballot to assure selection of a man who had never before held elective office. His service, however, as Secretary of Commerce for eight years under Republican administrations and for two years as Food Administrator under a Democratic administration had made him widely known.

Today Senator Kennedy appears to have more behind-the-scenes strength in politics than he is generally credited with having by his opponents. They concede he will get perhaps 500 delegates, but will fall short of the 761 needed for a majority.

So there is, as usual, talk of a "compromise" candidate. This time the two names most frequently mentioned for the "compromise" are Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri and former Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois. The assumption is that either might be chosen if a deadlock ensues.

But who is to bring about the "deadlock"? While Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas together have substantial strength, it is difficult at this writing to see how the combination of these two candidates can be enough to roll up the 761 votes needed to keep the nomination away from the Massachusetts Senator.

That's why talk of "compromise" candidates seems a little premature. Indeed, in recent weeks there has been a tendency in some quarters to write off Adlai Stevenson altogether, and some of his admirers have begun to get behind other candidates. This doesn't mean, however, that they wouldn't return to Stevenson if there's a deadlock. Actually those who would like to see Stevenson nominated would prefer at this stage of the game to have all the first-choice votes allocated publicly to other candidates so that, if a deadlock occurs, there will be freedom from entanglements and a readiness on the part of the minority blocs to swing to the man who was the nominee of the party in 1952 and 1956.

It takes lots of money and lots of organization strength to win any Presidential nomination unless a real deadlock ensues, when a "compromise" candidate can cash in on the work already done by the other candidates.

As this writer looks back on the 12 Presidential campaigns he has covered, it can be observed that, while in some instances where a President is up for re-election there is little preconvention activity. Most of the time the candidate who wins the nomination is one whose friends have spent the money or taken the time to lineup delegates in the preconvention campaign.

Right now, therefore — in the next four and a half months — it may be said that the 1960 Presidential contest on the Democratic side is being decided. At the moment Senator Kennedy is way ahead. He has the organization, the strategy, the financing and the backing of a substantial number of professional politicians. The question now is not so much whether he will win, but how is he going to be blocked — if, indeed, it isn't too late for anyone to accomplish that purpose.

Should the "Stop Kennedy" movement be successful and the delegates turn toward a "compromise," the best bet is still Adlai Stevenson. While it is being said that he was beaten twice, it is also being emphasized that he would run against Nixon this time — not against Eisenhower. Also, though losing in 1952, Stevenson got more votes than any successful Democratic candidate in history except one, and more than any Republican winner up to that time. He is truly the second choice today of many of the professional politicians who worked with him in two campaigns. He, therefore, has a head start on Senator Symington. The Missouri Senator doesn't have the organization strength that Stevenson has and isn't as well known at the "grass roots" level among the local politicians as is the man who has twice campaigned actively in most of the states of the union.

To sum up, this writer believes that Senator Kennedy is well out in front today and is likely to win the nomination, and that, if the Massachusetts Senator is blocked, the "compromise" candidate will be Adlai Stevenson.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FALLOUT SHELTERS — The Office of Civilian Defense Administration has been aware for years of the fact that some local building codes prohibit the construction of atomic fallout shelters, although OCD wants every home to have one.

However, they never thought they'd run into that kind of trouble in their own back yard, in Washington, D. C.

A Washington architect wanted to build a shelter in his back yard, and went to city authorities for the necessary building permit. Zoning officials turned him down, however, because only so much of his lot could be occupied by "dwellings."

Then he went to OCD and tried to get a permit to build a shelter in his own basement, but this, too, was refused because his design did not meet the agency's specifications.

It all had a happy ending, however. After about three months of wrangling, the architect got city permission to build the structure in his yard and the city classified it as a non-habitable room.

However, the architect is still shaking his head about a federal bureaucracy which urges all citizens to build protective dwellings for themselves and then places stumbling blocks in their way. He wonders how many home owners would have the persistence he had.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Six months ago, when the leaves were still green and heavy, two men moved into a double farmhouse at McConnelsville, Ohio. They have been there all winter. They aren't neighborly. They are seldom seen. In town, someone said "Those two live like hermits." That's strange, because that is what they are.

They are members of the rarest order of monks in the world — The Camaldolese Hermits. They belong to the Catholic Church and, in all of Christendom, there are only 132 of them. The two who took over the farm in McConnelsville are Father Maurice, a Belgian, and a lay brother. Within a week or two, there will be a third man, who will be called Frater Bernard.

This one is an American. He is 34, a calm, blue-eyed man with glasses. His father is an insurance salesman in Philadelphia. It is strange that he, of all people, should seek the life of the lonely ascetic because, at Northwestern University, they said he never missed a dance.

When he was in the Army Medical Corps on Okinawa in World War II, he was the leader of a pack of wild soldiers. One day, Bernard asked a chaplain how one goes about becoming a priest. The chaplain choked. "You!" he said. "Ha! That's ridiculous!"

Back home, Bernard hit the nightclub trail. He liked the music, the girls, the gaiety, the drinks, the laughter, the jokes. By day, he used his inquiring mind to probe different careers. "Everywhere," he says, "I found emptiness." This led to a frantic search for fullness.

One morning, he reasoned himself into a religious life. He said: "There is a God. I don't know Him. I must get to know Him. How can I get to know Him if I must concentrate on a bank account? There must be a place where one concentrates solely on God."

Had Bernard been a Baptist, an Episcopalian or whatever, he would have done precisely what he did as a Catholic: take his inquiring mind by the hand and go around looking at different religious communities. There are all types and gradations of Christians, ranging from the penitential hypocrites like me all the way to the contemplative ascetics like Frater Bernard.

He picked the Camaldolese Hermits because theirs is about the toughest life of all. They seldom talk to each other. This is what he wants and this is what he is getting. In about two weeks, Bernard will be off for McConnelsville, Ohio to join the other two.

The Camaldolese were organized in 1520 at Monte Corona, Italy. In four and a half centuries, they number fewer than 200 men. These men desire to leave the world and join God alone and in silence. They are priests, but they do not preach, do not convert, do not teach, and do not marry couples.

They live on farms in abject poverty, and would not accept modern farm machinery if it was given free. They raise their own vegetables, and never eat meat. Most of the time they do not have enough money to buy a bottle of aspirin if one of the monks becomes ill.

They wear plain white cotton habits and, as a new monk joins the community, a little hut is built for him on the farm. It is composed of one room, broken by partitions into three. There is a bed and bath, a workroom, a tiny chapel. Here, Frater Bernard will live alone, work at bookbindery or printing, and praise God in all his conscious moments.

His hut can be no closer than 30 feet to that of another monk. His day begins at 12:30 a. m., when he prays and meditates. At 3 a. m. he will go to bed and sleep three hours. He will sing a private mass, have breakfast of fruit, and begin his work day.

If he feels the need to speak to someone, his superior will grant permission for short periods three times a week. In time, if he chooses, he will become an "absolute recluse." In that case, he will take additional vows, and will try living alone in silence for six months. If that works, he will try it for a year. Then, a lifetime.

As I said, there are all kinds of Christians. Each one wants to know God, to feel His presence and thereby erase all doubt. Each wants most of all to be loved and to be forgiven. Some achieve it one way; some in another. What this man aspires to in silence, my mother achieved in darkness.

It's a quiet farm. . .

Antidiabetic Pills Won't Work For Everyone

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The new antidiabetic pills work like a charm for the 50 per cent of diabetics who can use them. But in some the effect is lost after several months or years. When this occurs, the individual must switch to another brand or go back to insulin injections.

A group of diabetic specialists at Georgetown University hospital, Washington, followed a series of 200 patients who had been taking tolbutamide tablets (Orinase) for as long as three years. Half the patients who had responded satisfactorily were forced to give up the drug at the end of two years. The physicians speculated that all patients will become resistant eventually, if this monthly rate of failure continues.

One-half the group were able to use substitutes like DBI or Diabinese, whereas others went back to insulin. Most of these failures occurred in those who were poorly controlled while taking the medication.

This is discouraging but not as bad as it sounds. Other drugs will be developed as alternate remedies. This has been our experience with the sulfonamides, penicillin, and many other modern remedies.

The initial discovery is the most difficult. Thereafter, chemists are able to manipulate the formula by adding or subtracting molecules from the original. In time, the pharmaceutical company with the original remedy finds that its competitors have products just as good as or better than the original.

There is no way, to my knowledge, to prevent the antidiabetic pills from losing their effect. It is important to remain on a diet to avoid overeating. These tablets work best in adults — the older the patient, the greater the chance of successful treatment.

Body weight also enters the picture. The heavier the individual when he starts taking the pills, the better the outlook — assuming that he is going to lose weight.

The response varies from 90 per cent in the overweight to 40 per cent in the underweight. This is to be expected, because 90 per cent of all diabetics are obese when the condition is detected and many do well after slimming down, even without insulin or pills.

BURNING SKIN FROM COLD

A. F. writes: Whenever I'm exposed to the cold my skin burns and turns red. Can this be classed as an unusual allergy?

REPLY

Yes, even though most victims of cold allergy develop hivelike reactions. The hand swells, for example, when a bottle of cold milk is removed from the refrigerator. In your case, special tests should be done because disturbances in circulation cause symptoms somewhat similar to those you describe.

NECK DISK

J. F. writes: Is a ruptured disk in the cervical area ever due to a long bout of nervous tension?

REPLY

No, but prolonged neck pain might cause nervous tension.

UNBORN'S HICCUPS

Mrs. J. writes: I'm in the seventh month of pregnancy and swear that I hear my baby hiccupping from time to time. Is this possible?

REPLY

Other women have made this claim but it is difficult to prove.

WHITE BAND

V. S. G. writes: What is the significance of a narrow, white, raised edge around the mouth?

REPLY

A good milk drinker. Children with scarlet fever may have an area of pallor around the lips, which is in sharp contrast to the scarlet rash of the face.

FT. KNOX MOUTH

R. E. writes: Is a lot of gold in the mouth hard on a person's health?

REPLY

No, but his budget may suffer.

TOMORROW: Air swallowing and bloating.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There's a county in the Blue Hills Mountain district where the hillbillies outnumber the townies five to one. Townies, however, control the voting machines and, by invoking their own "literacy test," disqualify every hillbilly who shows up at the polls. One hillbilly confounded them by answering questions about philosophy, world politics, etc.; so in desperation, the registration clerk produced a Chinese newspaper and demanded, "Can you read that headline?" "I can," said the hillbilly. "You can?" echoed the clerk. "What does it say?"

"It says," nodded the hillbilly sadly, "that hillbillies still ain't going to get to vote this year!"

"To prove to you girls how generous my husband is," boasted Mrs. McCloy at the Wednesday crocheting conclave, "I gave him twelve neckties for Christmas and he gave every one of them to the Salvation Army!"

You're Telling Me!

Game wardens in Nyasaland, Africa, are probing reports that natives have sighted a shaggy-haired monster, bigger than a gorilla. Wonder if it could be the Abominable Snowman, gone south for the winter?

The African monster was reportedly seen combing its long black hair with its hands. A neat trick, if true.

In Cleveland the sounds of shots on a TV Western program scared away a would-be store holdup man. Just another "bad guy" getting chased!

The U. S. Weather Bureau has devised a permanent set of girls' names to be used in designating hurricanes. It'll take a lot more than that to get those whirlwinds to settle down!

Sugar And Cuba

Castro is beginning to feel the pinch. Otherwise, he would not have tried to bind our hands prior to a conference on outstanding difficulties.

From the authoritative "McCarthy Sugar Report," I take these figures which ought to make an American think:

"To Russia— 1 million metric tons at $3.10 per 100 lbs. = $ 68,342,000
To the U.S.— 1 million metric tons at $5.10 per 100 lbs. = $112,434,000

Thus Russia gets Cuban sugar cheaper than the U. S. by $44,092,000.

"(The top world spot price this week was $3.10 per 100 pounds (F.O.B.) (Cuba), and U.S. spot on a comparable basis F.O.B. Cuba was $5.10).

"Actually, of the first one million tons, Russia bought 575,000 tons at a lower level than the indicated $3.10 price above. She bought last September 230,000 tons at $2.905 and on February 5 of this year 345,000 tons at $2.78 per 100 pounds. These sugars will go into the deal as part of the 1960 one million tons since they were purchased for shipment this year.

"As a matter of record Russia always buys sugar from Cuba at a discount under the spot price. In fact, no other country in the world since Castro became Cuba's dictator has bought sugar for less than Russia. Russia is the fair-haired boy."

Obviously, it makes no sense for the United States to pay more for Cuban sugar than Russia pays, or than any other country pays. Why must we always be suckers?

But it is not only sugar that we buy from Cuba at a subsidy price that comes out of the pockets of the American taxpayer. We also give Cuba a direct military subsidy of $543,000. This money is military assistance to Castro, for the training of jet fliers. He could use those fliers against the United States. Do we have to subsidize our enemies?

When we pay more for sugar than the world price, we are paying a subsidy. It is true that some of that money goes to American companies in Cuba which employ Cuban labor. Since the first Sugar Act of 1934, the United States has given Cuba a higher quota for the import of sugar that has amounted annually to 375,000 tons.

So advantageous has been the quota and the subsidy that a number of American companies have found it beneficial to invest in Cuba. All their properties are now imperilled by Castro policies.

There is a tendency on the part of some businessmen and members of Congress to oppose any action about either the quota or the subsidy at the present time, on the general ground that Castro will come to his senses and that then the American companies that do business in Cuba will continue to benefit by quota and subsidy. They feel that a subsidy once removed will never be reinstated. They are undoubtedly right, as there is a growing opposition to subsidies which seem to be unnecessary in a rising market.

Those who favor doing nothing about Castro have learned nothing from 40 years of experience. A revolution, such as the Castro movement in Cuba, that is, a social revolution, does not recede unless put down. There is too much to loot for those in power to give way unless they cannot hold up.

Cuba is not Russia. It is a minor country with small economic strength or potential. Its blackmail prospects are excellent because of its proximity to the United States, but the only way to get rid of a blackmailer is to knock his teeth out so that he cannot put the bite on.

Certain figures in the McCarthy Sugar Report are worth quoting in this connection:

"On September 1, start of the new crop year world stock was 12,541,000 metric tons. World production is estimated at 48,900,000 tons and consumption at 50,317,000. Thus world stock on August 31, 1960 will be 11,000,000. While the stock figure will be less than the 12,541,000 tons of the previous year it will be more than the 10,071,000 on hand September 1, 1958. A drought in Europe cut into estimated production.

"Of the total world production Russia will make an estimated 5,880,000 tons against 6,260,000 in the previous year. This is a post-war step-up in production from 2,500,000 tons in 1937-38 and is more than Cuba will produce . . ."

There is no shortage of sugar and the United States need take none at all from Cuba.

Big Contributors Get Early Start In New Hampshire's Primary Vote

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Most interesting backstage aspect of the New Hampshire primary is that although Vice President Nixon carefully stayed out, his financial organization carefully sent $12,556 in and most of it came from big business GOP contributors outside New Hampshire. In fact, it came from the same oil and banking families which have backed Nixon so generously in the past.

Mrs. Katherine Dulin Folger, who is married to Clifford Folger, U. S. ambassador to Belgium, sent $1,500 up to Nixon to make sure he would roll up a big vote. The Folger family contributed $11,500 to Nixon and Eisenhower in 1956, following which Folger was given one of the more important ambassadorships, despite the fact that the Dow Chemical heir, Fred Alger, then ambassador, wanted to remain on.

Folger is an investment banker, a director of the big Hiram Walker whisky combine, of Deep Rock Oil, International Business Machines, and Burlington Mills, the giant textile firm which has had antitrust troubles with the Justice Department.

Other generous contributions were sent to Nixon in New Hampshire by Roy Merritt of Coral Gables, Fla., $3,000, and Mrs. Clive Runnels of Bay City, Texas, $1,000. In 1956, Mr. and Mrs. Runnels were also generous contributors to Eisenhower and Nixon.

The Generous Pews

But by far the greatest Nixon largesse sent to New Hampshire came from the Pew family of Philadelphia, chief owners of the Sun Oil Company and the Sun Shipbuilding Company.

In the 1956 election the Pew family was the second highest contributor to Ike and Dick, coming through with a grand total of $216,800. They were topped only by the du Pont's $248,423. Even the Rockefellers rated lower, with only $152,604. For the past two decades, the Pew family — including brothers, sisters, sons and cousins—have been carefully spreading their contributions over the entire USA. When GOP fund-raisers got hard up they could always depend on the Pews.

Mary Ethel Pew, for instance, sister of Joe Pew, sent $1,250 out to Montana to defeat Sen. Mike Mansfield in 1952; $1,000 to Idaho in 1956 to re-elect Sen. Herman Welker; $1,000 to South Dakota in 1944 to help Sen. Harlem Bushfield.

This year they got off to a good generous start in New Hampshire, where Joe Pew sent Nixon $1,500, his son sent another $1,500, Mary Ethel Pew sent $1,500, and Mabel Pew sent $1,500.

Note — The Senate has now passed a clean elections bill which Speaker Sam Rayburn is sitting on. He doesn't like the requirement that all contributions in primary elections must be recorded. At present, New Hampshire and most Northern states require publication which is why the Pews' contributions are public knowledge. But Southern states don't. Good old Sam is delighted to have Northern Republican contributions published but not those in the South.

Blocking The Watchdogs

It hasn't been advertised, but some interesting byplay has taken place inside the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee involving protection for big campaign contributors.

Last fall, after Congress voted to give the radio and TV networks more freedom regarding equal time for political candidates, wise Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington appointed a "freedom-of-the-airways" watchdog subcommittee to make sure there was not too much political favoritism on the networks.

Magnuson knew that network executives had been openly, blatantly one-sided in the past. In contributions alone, CBS executives contributed $13,600 to the Republicans, none to the Democrats, on top of which they arbitrarily refused to show part of the Democratic film at its National Convention in Chicag .

NBC executives also tossed $3,500 into the Republican kitty, none to the Democrats; Storer Broadcasting $9,300 to the Republicans, none to the Democrats; Westinghouse $3,400 to the GOP, $500 to the Democrats; Crosley Broadcasting gave $4,500 to the Republicans, only $500 to the Democrats; while ABC gave $500 to the GOP, none to the Democrats.

So Senator Magnuson appointed Senators Yarborough of Texas and McGee of Wyoming, Democrats, with Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Republican, to keep an eye on the political partiality of the networks.

However, it so happens that Scott's biggest campaign contributor is the Pew family of Pennsylvania. It also happens that the Pew family's Sun Oil Company sponsors a program, "Three Star Extra," which pours adroitly slanted news out to the listening public, five days a week, 52 weeks of the year. It's far more effective than the $216,000 contributed by the Pew family to the GOP—and all tax-deductible as a business expense.

So Republican members of the Interstate Commerce Committee are now deathly afraid Magnuson's committee will probe the lopsided news and contributions of various network executives, including those of the Pew family. So they've been shrewdly blocking any funds for the watchdog committee. Cooperating with them has been Democratic Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island who is supposed to probe TV on another committee but is doing very little about it.

Kennedy Seen Well In Front In Democrat Race

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Lots of people think the Democratic National Convention will start in July — but actually it's going on now. The lining-up of delegations is invisible to the naked eye as leader after leader makes promises that on such and such a ballot he will transfer his support to another candidate.

Today, on the basis of precedent, it looks like Senator John Kennedy is well on the way to getting the nomination. His strength is, of course, often discounted, mostly by those who favor other candidates.

The situation very much resembles the contest for the Republican nomination that Herbert Hoover won in 1928. Almost everybody at the time thought that Mr. Hoover had substantial strength, but the professionals in the political ranks didn't think he could get anything like a majority of the delegates. In fact, leaders of the big organizations in the East who had dominated the 1920 and 1924 Republican conventions made their plans on the theory that someone who hadn't been as prominent in the public eye as Mr. Hoover could easily take the prize at the 1928 convention.

But the day the conclave opened at Kansas City the professionals got a shock. They learned that the Hoover forces really had lined up a majority of delegates, and it took only a single ballot to assure selection of a man who had never before held elective office. His service, however, as Secretary of Commerce for eight years under Republican administrations and for two years as Food Administrator under a Democratic administration had made him widely known.

Today Senator Kennedy appears to have more behind-the-scenes strength in politics than he is generally credited with having by his opponents. They concede he will get perhaps 500 delegates, but will fall short of the 761 needed for a majority.

So there is, as usual, talk of a "compromise" candidate. This time the two names most frequently mentioned for the "compromise" are Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri and former Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois. The assumption is that either might be chosen if a deadlock ensues.

But who is to bring about the "deadlock"? While Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas together have substantial strength, it is difficult at this writing to see how the combination of these two candidates can be enough to roll up the 761 votes needed to keep the nomination away from the Massachusetts Senator.

That's why talk of "compromise" candidates seems a little premature. Indeed, in recent weeks there has been a tendency in some quarters to write off Adlai Stevenson altogether, and some of his admirers have begun to get behind other candidates. This doesn't mean, however, that they wouldn't return to Stevenson if there's a deadlock. Actually those who would like to see Stevenson nominated would prefer at this stage of the game to have all the first-choice votes allocated publicly to other candidates so that, if a deadlock occurs, there will be freedom from entanglements and a readiness on the part of the minority blocs to swing to the man who was the nominee of the party in 1952 and 1956.

It takes lots of money and lots of organization strength to win any Presidential nomination unless a real deadlock ensues, when a "compromise" candidate can cash in on the work already done by the other candidates.

As this writer looks back on the 12 Presidential campaigns he has covered, it can be observed that, while in some instances where a President is up for re-election there is little preconvention activity. Most of the time the candidate who wins the nomination is one whose friends have spent the money or taken the time to lineup delegates in the preconvention campaign.

Right now, therefore — in the next four and a half months — it may be said that the 1960 Presidential contest on the Democratic side is being decided. At the moment Senator Kennedy is way ahead. He has the organization, the strategy, the financing and the backing of a substantial number of professional politicians. The question now is not so much whether he will win, but how is he going to be blocked — if, indeed, it isn't too late for anyone to accomplish that purpose.

Should the "Stop Kennedy" movement be successful and the delegates turn toward a "compromise," the best bet is still Adlai Stevenson. While it is being said that he was beaten twice, it is also being emphasized that he would run against Nixon this time — not against Eisenhower. Also, though losing in 1952, Stevenson got more votes than any successful Democratic candidate in history except one, and more than any Republicar winner up to that time. He is truly the second choice today of many of the professional politicians who worked with him in two campaigns. He, therefore, has a head start on Senator Symington. The Missouri Senator doesn't have the organization strength that Stevenson has and isn't as well known at the "grass roots" level among the local politicians as is the man who has twice campaigned actively in most of the states of the union.

To sum up, this writer believes that Senator Kennedy is well out in front today and is likely to win the nomination, and that, if the Massachusetts Senator is blocked, the "compromise" candidate will be Adlai Stevenson.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FALLOUT SHELTERS — The Office of Civilian Defense Administration has been aware for years of the fact that some local building codes prohibit the construction of atomic fallout shelters, although OCD wants every home to have one.

However, they never thought they'd run into that kind of trouble in their own back yard, in Washington, D. C.

A Washington architect wanted to build a shelter in his back yard, and went to city authorities for the necessary building permit. Zoning officials turned him down, however, because only so much of his lot could be occupied by "dwellings."

Then he went to OCD and tried to get a permit to build a shelter in his own basement, but this, too, was refused because his design did not meet the agency's specifications.

It all had a happy ending, however. After about three months of wrangling, the architect got city permission to build the structure in his yard and the city classified it as a non-habitable room.

However, the architect is still shaking his head about a federal bureaucracy which urges all citizens to build protective dwellings for themselves and then places stumbling blocks in their way. He wonders how many home owners would have the persistence he had.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Six months ago, when the leaves were still green and heavy, two men moved into a double farmhouse at McConnelsville, Ohio. They have been there all winter. They aren't neighborly. They are seldom seen. In town, someone said "Those two live like hermits." That's strange, because that is what they are.

They are members of the rarest order of monks in the world — The Camaldolese Hermits. They belong to the Catholic Church and, in all of Christendom, there are only 132 of them. The two who took over the farm in McConnelsville are Father Maurice, a Belgian, and a lay brother. Within a week or two, there will be a third man, who will be called Frater Bernard.

This one is an American. He is 34, a calm, blue-eyed man with glasses. His father is an insurance salesman in Philadelphia. It is strange that he, of all people, should seek the life of the lonely ascetic because, at Northwestern University, they said he never missed a dance.

When he was in the Army Medical Corps on Okinawa in World War II, he was the leader of a pack of wild soldiers. One day, Bernard asked a chaplain how one goes about becoming a priest. The chaplain choked. "You!" he said. "Ha! That's ridiculous!"

Back home, Bernard hit the nightclub trail. He liked the music, the girls, the gaiety, the drinks, the laughter, the jokes. By day, he used his inquiring mind to probe different careers. "Everywhere," he says, "I found emptiness." This led to a frantic search for fullness.

One morning, he reasoned himself into a religious life. He said: "There is a God. I don't know Him. I must get to know Him. How can I get to know Him if I must concentrate on a bank account? There must be a place where one concentrates solely on God."

Had Bernard been a Baptist, an Episcopalian or whatever, he would have done precisely what he did as a Catholic: take his inquiring mind by the hand and go around looking at different religious communities. There are all types and gradations of Christians, ranging from the penitential hypocrites like me all the way to the contemplative ascetics like Frater Bernard.

He picked the Camaldolese Hermits because theirs is about the toughest life of all. They seldom talk to each other. This is what he wants and this is what he is getting. In about two weeks, Bernard will be off for McConnelsville, Ohio to join the other two.

The Camaldolese were organized in 1520 at Monte Corona, Italy. In four and a half centuries, they number fewer than 200 men. These men desire to leave the world and join God alone and in silence. They are priests, but they do not preach, do not convert, do not teach, and do not marry couples.

They live on farms in abject poverty, and would not accept modern farm machinery if it was given free. They raise their own vegetables, and never eat meat. Most of the time they do not have enough money to buy a bottle of aspirin if one of the monks becomes ill.

They wear plain white cotton habits and, as a new monk joins the community, a little hut is built for him on the farm. It is composed of one room, broken by partitions into three. There is a bed and bath, a workroom, a tiny chapel. Here, Frater Bernard will live alone, work at bookbindery or printing, and praise God in all his conscious moments.

His hut can be no closer than 30 feet to that of another monk. His day begins at 12:30 a. m., when he prays and meditates. At 3 a. m. he will go to bed and sleep three hours. He will sing a private mass, have breakfast of fruit, and begin his work day.

If he feels the need to speak to someone, his superior will grant permission for short periods three times a week. In time, if he chooses, he will become an "absolute recluse." In that case, he will take additional vows, and will try living alone in silence for six months. If that works, he will try it for a year. Then, a lifetime.

As I said, there are all kinds of Christians. Each one wants to know God, to feel His presence and thereby erase all doubt. Each wants most of all to be loved and to be forgiven. Some achieve it one way; some in another. What this man aspires to in silence, my mother achieved in darkness.

It's a quiet farm. . .

Antidiabetic Pills Won't Work For Everyone

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The new antidiabetic pills work like a charm for the 50 per cent of diabetics who can use them. But in some the effect is lost after several months or years. When this occurs, the individual must switch to another brand or go back to insulin injections.

A group of diabetic specialists at Georgetown University hospital, Washington, followed a series of 200 patients who had been taking tolbutamide tablets (Orinase) for as long as three years. Half the patients who had responded satisfactorily were forced to give up the drug at the end of two years. The physicians speculated that all patients will become resistant eventually, if this monthly rate of failure continues.

One-half the group were able to use substitutes like DBI or Diabinese, whereas others went back to insulin. Most of these failures occurred in those who were poorly controlled while taking the medication.

This is discouraging but not as bad as it sounds. Other drugs will be developed as alternate remedies. This has been our experience with the sulfonamides, penicillin, and many other modern remedies.

The initial discovery is the most difficult. Thereafter, chemists are able to manipulate the formula by adding or subtracting molecules from the original. In time, the pharmaceutical company with the original remedy finds that its competitors have products just as good as or better than the original.

There is no way, to my knowledge, to prevent the antidiabetic pills from losing their effect. It is important to remain on a diet to avoid overeating. These tablets work best in adults — the older the patient, the greater the chance of successful treatment.

Body weight also enters the picture. The heavier the individual when he starts taking the pills, the better the outlook — assuming that he is going to lose weight.

The response varies from 90 per cent in the overweight to 40 per cent in the underweight. This is to be expected, because 90 per cent of all diabetics are obese when the condition is detected and many do well after slimming down, even without insulin or pills.

BURNING SKIN FROM COLD

A. F. writes: Whenever I'm exposed to the cold my skin burns and turns red. Can this be classed as an unusual allergy?

REPLY

Yes, even though most victims of cold allergy develop hivelike reactions. The hand swells, for example, when a bottle of cold milk is removed from the refrigerator. In your case, special tests should be done because disturbances in circulation cause symptoms somewhat similar to those you describe.

NECK DISK

J. F. writes: Is a ruptured disk in the cervical area ever due to a long bout of nervous tension?

REPLY

No, but prolonged neck pain might cause nervous tension.

UNBORN'S HICCUPS

Mrs. J. writes: I'm in the seventh month of pregnancy and swear that I hear my baby hiccupping from time to time. Is this possible?

REPLY

Other women have made this claim but it is difficult to prove.

WHITE BAND

REPLY

A good milk drinker. Children with scarlet fever may have an area of pallor around the lips, which is in sharp contrast to the scarlet rash of the face.

FT. KNOX MOUTH

R. E. writes: Is a lot of gold in the mouth hard on a person's health?

REPLY

No, but his budget may suffer.

TOMORROW: Air swallowing and bloating.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There's a county in the Blue Hills Mountain district where the hillbillies outnumber the townies five to one. Townies, however, control the voting machines and, by invoking their own "literacy test," disqualify every hillbilly who shows up at the polls. One hillbilly confounded them by answering questions about philosophy, world politics, etc.; so in desperation, the registration clerk produced a Chinese newspaper and demanded, "Can you read that headline?" "I can," said the hillbilly. "You can?" echoed the clerk. "What does it say?"

"It says," nodded the hillbilly sadly, "that hillbillies still ain't going to get to vote this year!"

"To prove to you girls how generous my husband is," boasted Mrs. McCloy at the Wednesday crocheting conclave, "I gave him twelve neckties for Christmas and he gave every one of them to the Salvation Army!"

The African monster was reportedly seen combing its long black hair with its hands. A neat trick, if true.

In Cleveland the sounds of shots on a TV Western program scared away a would-be store holdup man. Just another "bad guy" getting chased!

Piedmont Edges Paw Paw, 61-60, In Region 4-A Final

Lions Battle Aurora Quint On Saturday

Regional Winners Play In Petersburg For Area 2 Title

Piedmont High School's Lions squeezed by Paw Paw High School's Pirates last night at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, by the score of 61-60 to win the West Virginia Region 4-A basketball tournament.

The victory, 20th in 22 starts for Coach William "Huck" Miers' quint, advanced the Mineral County quint into the Area 2 game which will be played Saturday night at Petersburg High School in Grant county. Piedmonts opponent will be Aurora High School of Pendleton county which won the Region 3-A tournament last night by beating Bayard at Parsons High School. The area winner will qualify for the state championship tournament at Morgantown next weekend.

Paw Paw playing Piedmont for the first time this season gave the Lions a battle right down to the final whistle but three foul goals—one by Vincent Fagan and two by Roger Fisher decided the issue. Tommy Malcolm connected for two foul shots for Paw Paw just before the final whistle to put the Pirates only one point in the rear.

Trailing 51-44 at the close of the third period, Paw Paw made it a photo finish when Tommy Malcolm scored 10 points and Kevin Edmonson racked up five in the final stanza.

Approximately 450 persons witnessed the tournament finale.

The game's high scorer was Malcolm who tossed in 21 points on eight field goals and 5-8 fouls. Fagan of Piedmont collected 20 points on eight goals and 4-7 fouls to pace the winners. Wayne Russell, of the Lions, who fouled out in the final period, racked up 18 points while Edmonson of Paw Paw collected 16.

Piedmont outscored Paw Paw 25 to 21 from the field. At the foul line, Paw Paw hooped 18 of 28 shots and Paw Paw sank 15 out of 23.

John Gordon fouled out for Paw Paw in the final period. Box score:

The semifinal and final games involving the class A, B, and C teams in the state's five districts are set for March 18-19 at the University of Maryland at College Park, Steiner said.

Preston Countians Win In Region 3A

Aurora High School of Preston county won the West Virginia Region 3A basketball tournament last night by defeating Bayard High School in the finals of the two-day tourney by the score of 67-60.

In opening round games Bayard had beaten Harman, 67-40, and Aurora eliminated Valley of Masontown, 74-72.

Bowie Race Track Will Reopen Today

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Bowie track owners, bigger gamblers than their bettors, reopen for racing business Wednesday.

The horse track has been idle nearly a week because of snow. Last Thursday's shutdown was the third interruption since Bowie started braving the odds on winter weather Feb. 12.

On the second day, it had to call off the last four of nine races and later closed down another day before last week.

It will try to make up the four races by running four 10-race programs before the scheduled end of the meet March 29.

The first is set for Saturday, when horsemen and fans will be offered two handicaps. In addition to the originally scheduled $25,000 Bowie Handicap, the $7,500 Myrtlewood for fillies and mares was carded.

Bowie Race Track Will Reopen Today

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Bowie track owners, bigger gamblers than their bettors, reopen for racing business Wednesday.

The horse track has been idle nearly a week because of snow. Last Thursday's shutdown was the third interruption since Bowie started braving the odds on winter weather Feb. 12.

On the second day, it had to call off the last four of nine races and later closed down another day before last week.

It will try to make up the four races by running four 10-race programs before the scheduled end of the meet March 29.

The first is set for Saturday, when horsemen and fans will be offered two handicaps. In addition to the originally scheduled $25,000 Bowie Handicap, the $7,500 Myrtlewood for fillies and mares was carded.

Cresaptown Wins Eighth Grade Intramural Basketball Tourney

Defeats Mt. Savage In "Sudden Death" Playoff Tilt, 18-8

Cresaptown nosed out Mt. Savage in a sudden death playoff to capture the Allegany County Eighth Grade Boys' Intramural Basketball Tournament yesterday at Allegany High School.

In the sudden death special playoff each team traded foul goals before Jay Miller's goal won the game for Cresaptown. Allegany and Beall tied for third place followed by Bruce, Valley and Fort Hill.

Each school was represented by their intramural champions as approximately 50 athletes competed for honors. Each team played at least two games as a team was not eliminated until it lost twice.

Outstanding performers for each school were:

Cresaptown — Vandenberg and Wilt. Mt. Savage—Robert Robertson and Gary Barb. Beall—Ronald Frazier and John Smouse. Allegany—Jack Stimler and Larry Miller. Bruce—Louis Kight and Wayne Harmon. Valley — Denny Sloan and Charles Schramm. Fort Hill—John Rosser and Bill Thompson.

West Virginia Beats Navy In NCAA Tournament, 94-86

West Rings Up 34 Points For Mountaineers

WVU To Play New York U. On Friday At Charlotte, N. C.

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—All-America Jerry West recovered from a sluggish start Tuesday night and sparked a second-half spurt that carried West Virginia to a 94-86 victory over scrappy Navy in the first round of the NCAA basketball tournament.

In the opening game of the tripleheader at Madison Square Garden, little Russ Cunningham hit with some brilliant outside shooting while center Tom Sanders was throttled by a zone defense and led New York University to a 78-59 triumph over Connecticut.

Duke met Princeton in the finale before a crowd of about 15,000.

Lost By One Point

West Virginia, which lost out in the final of the 1959 tournament to California by one point, and NYU will meet in the second round of the tournament Friday night at Charlotte, N. C.

West Virginia, ranked sixth nationally by the United Press International board of coaches, struggled right to the final buzzer with the dead-game Midshipmen, who last year upset North Carolina in the first round.

But in the end, the superior shooting talent of West and his teammates and the height advantage furnished chiefly by 6-foot, 7-inch Joe Posch earned West Virginia its 25th victory in 29 games this season.

With Jay Metzler, Allen Hughes and Jim Bower combining to score Navy's first 21 points in the second half, the Middies trailed by only 53-58 with 13 minutes to play.

Jerry Takes Charge

At this point West took charge. He ran off 12 of the Mountaineers' next 20 points to help open a 78-67 margin with seven minutes left to play. West also scored eight of West Virginia's last 12 points to beat off Navy's embattled last - ditch challenge.

Although West Virginia had what appeared to be a comfortable 88-73 advantage with three minutes to go, Metzler led a rally that brought Navy within six potnts of the Mountaineers 11 seconds before the final buzzer.

West Leads Scorers

West wound up the game's high scorer with 34 points, 23 of them in the second half. During the first half, West had only four field goals and three of seven free throw attempts.

While West thus was being effectively guarded by Bower, Jim Warren carried West Virginia's scoring load with seven first-half field goals. Metzler was Navy's high scorer with 27 points.

Judy Devlin Seeks Title

U.S. Badminton Ace Goes To England

BALTIMORE (AP)—Judy Devlin leaves Wednesday for England with two strong endorsements for her chance to regain the world badminton championship.

The 24-year-old miss is at the peak of her illustrious career—according to herself and Margaret Varner.

"I feel strong and I think I'm ready for a top effort," said Miss Devlin.

"Judy is playing her best badminton ever," says Miss Varner, also a former world champion.

Miss Varner speaks from personal observation. She was beaten 11-1, 11-3 by Miss Devlin in the finals of the Mason-Dixon tourney here last Sunday.

Miss Devlin, a three-time world champion, was dethroned last year in England by Heather Ward of London. Miss Devlin will not have a chance for revenge since Miss Ward now lives in South Africa and will not defend her title.

Maryland State Defeated, 64-63

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Fourth-seeded Westminster of Wilmington, Pa., fought off a determined Maryland State team for a tight 64-63 victory Tuesday in the opening game of the second day's play in the National Intercollegiate (NAIA) Basketball Tournament.

Leading by 11 points with 10 minutes to play Westminster was stopped with one field goal the rest of the way but caged 10 free throws to hang on.

Charley Davis scored 30 points to lead the victors. Wilbur Smith hit 22 points for Maryland State.

Basketball star Jeff Cohen traveled nearly 3,000 miles to go to school at William & Mary. His home is in Los Angeles.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thirty-two baseball seasons ago, Tom Zachary put everything he had on the best pitch of his life to Babe Ruth — and has been regretting it ever since.

"I should've thrown it at his big fat head," said the old left-hander of the Washington Senators, now 62 and full of good humor.

"But he got a hold of it and sent it high and far away down the right field line, almost up to the Concourse Plaze Hotel. I hollered 'foul' right away and I've been hollering ever since but it didn't do any good.

"They called it a home run."

Most Important Homer

Officially, it's the most important homer in baseball history—No. 60 for Ruth in that season of 1927. The record still stands as a monument to the most prodigious slugger of them all.

"Not only that," said Zachary, a competitive pitcher to the core, "it cost me the ball game. I had a 2-2 tie in the eighth. Ruth finally got his homer that inning with a man on base and that was the old ball game."

Zachary, still active "doing a little farming" at his home in Graham, N.C., was, and always will be, a great admirer of Babe Ruth.

Admirer Of Babe

"There'll never be another one" said Tom. "I don't care if some young fella comes along and hits 100 homers and breaks all his records. There was only one Babe Ruth."

In September of 1927, Ruth really went on a spree and had reached 59 with a pair on Sept. 29. The season was to end on Sept. 30.

Some reports of that historic day insist Ruth's record passed virtually unnoticed since he had hit so many home runs they were common place.

"That's not true," said Tom. "We all knew he was going for a record. And the first time he came to bat I yelled at him he'd better start swinging at everything because he wasn't going to get a good pitch all day.

Ruth Walked Twice

"I cussed at him and he cussed me back," Zachary said with a chuckle as if recalling a duel that happened only yesterday.

True to his word, Zachary did not give Ruth much. Twice the frustrated Bambino waited for the "big one" that never came, refusing to swing. He walked twice.

"But we're in the eighth with that 2-2 tie and a man on base," said Zachary. "There's a ball game that has to be won and I don't want to walk him if I can help it. I threw him the best pitch I had, with the most on it.

Tom Hollered Foul

"Well, it was a big wallop. It went up and out but close to the line. As soon as I saw it, I started hollering 'foul' — it was too late to do anything else.

"I've been wishing ever since I'd stuck that pitch in his ear."

Burke Hits Homer Off "Iron Mike"

The Birds' mechanical marvel hurled Coach Luman Harris' Hares to a 2-to-0 two-hit shutout over Harry Brecheen's Cats in the daily intrasquad competition.

Leo Burke's sixth inning homer, a 350-foot blast over the leftfield fence, and Jim Finigan's double in the ninth produced the only runs in the Hares' eight-hit offensive against Mike, who twirled for both sides in the 55-minute, nine inning contest.

Mike, who flings only fast balls via a network of pulleys and iron chain, walked none and twice struck out Dave Nicholson, the $115,000 Oriole bonus prospect.

West Virginia Beats Navy In NCAA Tournament, 94-86

WVU To Play New York U. On Friday At Charlotte, N. C.

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—All-America Jerry West recovered from a sluggish start Tuesday night and sparked a second-half spurt that carried West Virginia to a 94-86 victory over scrappy Navy in the first round of the NCAA basketball tournament.

In the opening game of the tripleheader at Madison Square Garden, little Russ Cunningham hit with some brilliant outside shooting while center Tom Sanders was throttled by a zone defense and led New York University to a 78-59 triumph over Connecticut.

Duke met Princeton in the finale before a crowd of about 15,000.

Lost By One Point

West Virginia, which lost out in the final of the 1959 tournament to California by one point, and NYU will meet in the second round of the tournament Friday night at Charlotte, N. C.

West Virginia, ranked sixth nationally by the United Press International board of coaches, struggled right to the final buzzer with the dead-game Midshipmen, who last year upset North Carolina in the first round.

But in the end, the superior shooting talent of West and his teammates and the height advantage furnished chiefly by 6-foot, 7-inch Joe Posch earned West Virginia its 25th victory in 29 games this season.

With Jay Metzler, Allen Hughes and Jim Bower combining to score Navy's first 21 points in the second half, the Middies trailed by only 53-58 with 13 minutes to play.

Jerry Takes Charge

At this point West took charge. He ran off 12 of the Mountaineers' next 20 points to help open a 78-67 margin with seven minutes left to play. West also scored eight of West Virginia's last 12 points to beat off Navy's embattled last - ditch challenge.

Although West Virginia had what appeared to be a comfortable 88-73 advantage with three minutes to go, Metzler led a rally that brought Navy within six potnts of the Mountaineers 11 seconds before the final buzzer.

West Leads Scorers

West wound up the game's high scorer with 34 points, 23 of them in the second half. During the first half, West had only four field goals and three of seven free throw attempts.

While West thus was being effectively guarded by Bower, Jim Warren carried West Virginia's scoring load with seven first-half field goals. Metzler was Navy's high scorer with 27 points.

Robinson-Baldoni To Meet April 2

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Sugar Ray Robinson, seeking to regain the world middleweight crown a fifth time, has agreed to meet Tony Baldoni of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in a 10-round tuneup match at the Baltimore Coliseum, April 2, promoter Al Flora announced Tuesday.

Baldoni, 29, has been boxing professionally since 1948, but has not been too active. He had only nine bouts in the past four years and won only four of them.

Robinson accepted the Baldoni bout as a tuneup for his scheduled rematch with Paul Pender at Boston April 29.

MIKE SNEERINGER

Loyola Co-Captain To Play Here With College Stars

Mike Sneeringer, 24-year-old co-captain of the Loyola College basketball team in Baltimore during the season just ended, will be one of the players for the Maryland College All-Stars who will meet the Central YMCA varsity in a game at the "Y" at 8 p. m. Saturday.

Some 11 college basketball stars, representing 10 institutions of higher learning in Maryland, will arrive here Friday in preparation for the Saturday night game. The game is being sponsored by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club as a benefit for Sunshine Camp, which the club has conducted on MacDonald Terrace each summer since 1940.

Sneeringer, who is a native of Baltimore, attended Mt. St. Joseph's High School in Baltimore. He was the No. 3 scorer for the Greyhounds, who compete in the Mason-Dixon Conference. This outstanding shooter on the Loyola squad scored 261 points during the season. He weighs 185 pounds and is six feet two inches tall.

A Korean war veteran who did not play basketball in high school, Mike was the most improved player on the Greyhound squad. A business administration major, he is married and the father of a baby girl.

Previously announced as a member of the Maryland College All Stars was Jack Gunn, 20-year-old Mt. St. Mary's College senior from Mineola, N. Y.

U.S. Badminton Ace Goes To England

BALTIMORE (AP)—Judy Devlin leaves Wednesday for England with two strong endorsements for her chance to regain the world badminton championship.

The 24-year-old miss is at the peak of her illustrious career—according to herself and Margaret Varner.

"I feel strong and I think I'm ready for a top effort," said Miss Devlin.

"Judy is playing her best badminton ever," says Miss Varner, also a former world champion.

Miss Varner speaks from personal observation. She was beaten 11-1, 11-3 by Miss Devlin in the finals of the Mason-Dixon tourney here last Sunday.

Miss Devlin, a three-time world champion, was dethroned last year in England by Heather Ward of London. Miss Devlin will not have a chance for revenge since Miss Ward now lives in South Africa and will not defend her title.

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thirty-two baseball seasons ago, Tom Zachary put everything he had on the best pitch of his life to Babe Ruth — and has been regretting it ever since.

"I should've thrown it at his big fat head," said the old left-hander of the Washington Senators, now 62 and full of good humor.

"But he got a hold of it and sent it high and far away down the right field line, almost up to the Concourse Plaze Hotel. I hollered 'foul' right away and I've been hollering ever since but it didn't do any good.

"They called it a home run."

Most Important Homer

Officially, it's the most important homer in baseball history—No. 60 for Ruth in that season of 1927. The record still stands as a monument to the most prodigious slugger of them all.

"Not only that," said Zachary, a competitive pitcher to the core, "it cost me the ball game. I had a 2-2 tie in the eighth. Ruth finally got his homer that inning with a man on base and that was the old ball game."

Zachary, still active "doing a little farming" at his home in Graham, N.C., was, and always will be, a great admirer of Babe Ruth.

Admirer Of Babe

"There'll never be another one" said Tom. "I don't care if some young fella comes along and hits 100 homers and breaks all his records. There was only one Babe Ruth."

In September of 1927, Ruth really went on a spree and had reached 59 with a pair on Sept. 29. The season was to end on Sept. 30.

Some reports of that historic day insist Ruth's record passed virtually unnoticed since he had hit so many home runs they were common place.

"That's not true," said Tom. "We all knew he was going for a record. And the first time he came to bat I yelled at him he'd better start swinging at everything because he wasn't going to get a good pitch all day.

Ruth Walked Twice

"I cussed at him and he cussed me back," Zachary said with a chuckle as if recalling a duel that happened only yesterday.

True to his word, Zachary did not give Ruth much. Twice the frustrated Bambino waited for the "big one" that never came, refusing to swing. He walked twice.

"But we're in the eighth with that 2-2 tie and a man on base," said Zachary. "There's a ball game that has to be won and I don't want to walk him if I can help it. I threw him the best pitch I had, with the most on it.

Tom Hollered Foul

"Well, it was a big wallop. It went up and out but close to the line. As soon as I saw it, I started hollering 'foul' — it was too late to do anything else.

"I've been wishing ever since I'd stuck that pitch in his ear."

Burke Hits Homer Off "Iron Mike"

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "Iron Mike," the Orioles' new electric pitching machine, flirted with baseball immortality at Baltimore's spring training camp Tuesday.

The Birds' mechanical marvel hurled Coach Luman Harris' Hares to a 2-to-0 two-hit shutout over Harry Brecheen's Cats in the daily intrasquad competition.

Leo Burke's sixth inning homer, a 350-foot blast over the leftfield fence, and Jim Finigan's double in the ninth produced the only runs in the Hares' eight-hit offensive against Mike, who twirled for both sides in the 55-minute, nine inning contest.

Mike, who flings only fast balls via a network of pulleys and iron chain, walked none and twice struck out Dave Nicholson, the $115,000 Oriole bonus prospect.

State Auditor Praises Town Garbage Record

Piedmont Council Has Routine Meet

PIEDMONT—City of Piedmont was complimented by Myles Wickline, a state auditor who recently audited the books of the city, for the manner in which the garbage system records are kept by the city clerk, Joseph Maybury.

Mayor Rodney Baker stated at the regular meeting of the Town Council Monday evening that the auditor said that in the future, permission should be obtained from the State Tax Commissioner before any money is borrowed from the bank.

When money is borrowed, the Mayor and Council must sign the note making themselves personally responsible for the loan, he noted.

The complaint of dogs running at large was discussed. Council will receive any applications for a dog catcher.

The report of the Police Department for February was read by Mayor Baker citing number of arrests and investigations during the month which included two speeding arrests, two hazardous driving, ten traffic warnings, reckless driving, two accidents investigated, two assault cases, one breaking and entering, two destruction of property, six disturbances and six investigations and ten complaints; assisted State Police two times and sheriff's office two times. Collected $83.71 in 25 cent fees for overparking.

Police requested two summer coats and two pair of summer trousers for each officer.

The Town voted to become a member of the Tri-Towns Community Council. The state auditor suggested that the city join the League of Municipalities of the State.

One hundred and three dollars and eighty-four cents was collected from parking meters and violations last week the city clerk reported.

Tri-Towns Community Council Elects And Studies Projects

PIEDMONT—Mrs. Arthur Hartman was chosen to head the newly organized Community Council at a meeting held Monday evening at the Presbyterian Church.

Kenneth E. Sheetz, principal of Bruce High School of Westernport, was named vice president. Members of the executive committee include Alton Fortney, Robert Gerfin, Harris LeFew, Raymond Hudson and Miss Ann Kelly. Mr. Sheetz presided and Mrs. Virginia Smith, acted as secretary.

The committee will select a secretary and a treasurer. This committee expects to meet several times before the next general meeting on Monday, April 4.

The constitution was approved in its final form and each organization that is a member was given two copies so their membership can acquaint themselves with the aims and purposes of the council.

A number of things that would be of benefit to the community were discussed and the executive committee will select about three of them as an initial project.

Among the suggestions would be a Clean-up Day to be held in the Tri-Towns simultaneously; have signs erected to the entrance of Tri-Towns welcoming visitors; erect signs with the names of all of the churches in the Tri-Towns; a bulletin showing the names of Civic Clubs and the day and time they meet.

A sign placed in the vicinity of the station of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company informing the people passing through that this is the home of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company was also suggested.

It was proposed to have street signs repainted, straightened and new ones placed where necessary. It was also suggested to encourage those who do not have a number on their residences to apply them.

An information center was suggested for each town probably in the Council Chamber where one could secure information and addresses of residents.

Merchants may be urged to conduct a campaign to secure new business, as much of the money being earned here is not being spent in the Tri-Towns.

Fort Ashby School (new building) Thursday, at 10 a. m.;

New Creek School, Friday, at 1:30 p. m.;

Wiley Ford School, March 14, at 10 a. m.;

Burlington School, March 14, at 1:30 p. m.;

Ridgeley Grade School, March 28, at 10 a. m., and Keyser at Mineral County Health department, March 29, from 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Children in the areas served by the smaller schools including Short Gap, Pattersons Creek, Fountain, Limestone, St. Frances, Beryl, Antioch, and Cross may attend the clinic most convenient for them.

According to the West Virginia School Law, all children who will enter school for the first time next fall (1960) must have completed their immunizations before the opening day of school. All parents of children from the age of three months to six years are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to have their children immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus and also vaccinated against smallpox.

The term "pre-school" does not limit the age to those entering school, but as stated above, is for children from three months to six years.

Lonaconing Will Enforce Parking Laws

Hitch-Hiking Ban Is Also Ordered

LONACONING — "No parking" will be strictly enforced in front of the Lonaconing Post Office by the Police Department. At the mayor and council meeting Monday night in the town hall, it was announced that two parking meters will be removed in front of Love's Grocery store, opposite the Post Office and signs "Five Minute Parking Limit" will be installed for stopping to go in the Post Office for this limited time. The red line painted in front of Lonaconing Post Office will be warning to all motorists that no parking is permitted.

Consideration is being given to a law on overnight parking on Jackson, Douglas Avenue and East Main streets. In event of emergencies such as fire, trucks would be unable to travel without damag to cars parked on these streets.

Parking meters will be emptied and checked on Sundays. At the same time their operating condition can be checked, council agreed.

Loitering on community streets and hitching rides within incorporated limits will not be allowed. The police officers have been instructed to prohibit nightly loitering and thumbing, in Lonaconing.

Street repairs are being scheduled for this spring and summer with a contracting company consulted for these road jobs.

The Little League baseball organization was granted permission to have the town truck haul fill to their baseball field at the Silk Mill to ready it for spring games.

Mayor Robert D. Peebles and Councilmen Benjamin Evans Jr., James Berry, Robert "Lefty" Grove and Benjamin Zarger approved a fire plug installation on High Street to provide adequate fire protection to dwellings on Big Vein Hill and Roosevelt Avenue.

A petition with 32 signers was submitted by the residents of Big Vein Hill and Roosevelt Avenue requesting the installation of a fire plug. The town officials and Good Will Volunteer Fire Company voiced their full support for fire protection to be adequate for these homes. It will require new pipe line and fire plug.

Guard railing along East High Street was requested in a petition from Big Vein Hill citizens. The mayor and council was agreeable to have the guard rails installed as weather permits.

Fire hydrants have been snowed over with the recent storms. The street superintendent and his assistants were ordered to clear all snow and ice from the hydrants to have them ready in case of need in fighting fires in the community.

Lonaconing Water Company superintendent reported that a fire plug is being installed at Click's Crossing near Marshall's Lumber Company. Arrangements were made by the business places and residents on State Street with the Water Company to have this fire protection installation.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved mother, Ida V. Myers, who died March 8, 1959.
Deep in our heart lies a picture,
Of a loved one laid to rest.
In memory's frame we shall keep it,
Because she was one of the best.
More and more each day we miss her.
Friends may think the wound is healed.
But they little know the sorrow,
Lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missd by
Son—Glen Myers
Daughter & Son-in-law
Mr. and Mrs. Loring Helmick
and family

In loving memory of my dear husband, Paul Edward Spaur, who died March 9, 1952.
Our paths divided, you have gone before,
Husband of my heart . . . But to that Other Shore.
I fondly turn my hopes, in faith that I
Shall walk again with you beyond the sky.
Loving wife, BETTY LOU SHARON

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness and sympathy during the time of the bereavement of our dear husband and father, Mr. Charles Morgan. We wish especially to thank Rev. Byron Keesecker of the Barton Methodist Church who officiated and others who sent flowers and other tributes.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved mother, Ida V. Myers, who died March 8, 1959.
Deep in our heart lies a picture,
Of a loved one laid to rest.
In memory's frame we shall keep it,
Because she was one of the best.
More and more each day we miss her.
Friends may think the wound is healed.
But they little know the sorrow,
Lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missd by
Son—Glen Myers
Daughter & Son-in-law
Mr. and Mrs. Loring Helmick
and family

In loving memory of my dear husband, Paul Edward Spaur, who died March 9, 1952.
Our paths divided, you have gone before,
Husband of my heart . . . But to that Other Shore.
I fondly turn my hopes, in faith that I Shall walk again with you beyond the sky.
Loving wife, BETTY LOU SHARON

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness and sympathy during the time of the bereavement of our dear husband and father, Mr. Charles Morgan. We wish especially to thank Rev. Byron Keesecker of the Barton Methodist Church who officiated and others who sent flowers and other tributes.

Mushroom Farm Will Be Started In Old Coal Mine

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A mushroom "farm" operation inside an abandoned coal mine about five miles east of here will be started May 1, it was reported Monday.

The Agriculture Department noted that the project will be the first of its kind in West Virginia. A commercial mushroom "farm" operation opened in Marshall County last year, but it was carried out in an abandoned clay mine.

The latest venture will determine the feasibility of raising mushrooms commercially in a mine.

Council Adopts Pay Plan For Salaried Employes

The Mayor and Council on Monday adopted a merit pay plan for city employes and established classifications for jobs which set minnmum and maximum pay for all annual and salaried employes under Civil Service.

Council said a plan for hourly-paid employes is being prepared and will be acted on prior to the July 1 effective date of the new plan.

No employe will receive a reduction in pay as a result of the new plan. In some cases where an employe is "between steps" in the classification plan, he will go to the next higher salary class provided.

Council said the entire cost over the next five years will amount to a total of "less than $25,000."

In issuing a statement on its unanimous opinion in the matter, council said it felt the plans are "in the best interests of all city employes and citizens."

"The present ordinances deal only with salaried employes. A study is being made in connection with hourly-paid and prior to July 1, 1960, similar ordinances will be introduced relative to hourly employes.

"We would like to further state that prior to July 1, ordinances will undoubtedly be introduced in connection with sick benefits, vacations and holidays so that the same regulations will apply to all city employes.

"It is felt that such a plan for hourly employes will cost approximately the same" as that for salaried employes, council said adding "It is also believed that these ordinances will improve morale of city employes and will give them a certain sense of job security; in addition, they will receive periodic pay increases so long as their work is satisfactory."

The merit pay plan sets up authority for a personnel officer, the duties of which will be assumed by City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery. On this point, Commissioner John J. Long said in answer to questions from some citizens, he wanted it emphasized that council is not creating a new position. The job is being assumed into the regular duties of the city clerk, he said.

In addition, the Civil Service Commission, in a letter signed by Francis A. Kenney, chairman, said it recommended adoption of the plan. It also noted it had recommended the move for some time to implement the 1955 job classification of city employes.

Class 1—Janitor 1, $2,180, $2,240, $2,300, $2,360, $2,420, $2,480, $2,540.

Mushroom Farm Will Be Started In Old Coal Mine

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A mushroom "farm" operation inside an abandoned coal mine about five miles east of here will be started May 1, it was reported Monday.

The Agriculture Department noted that the project will be the first of its kind in West Virginia. A commercial mushroom "farm" operation opened in Marshall County last year, but it was carried out in an abandoned clay mine.

The latest venture will determine the feasibility of raising mushrooms commercially in a mine.

Council Adopts Pay Plan For Salaried Employes

The Mayor and Council on Monday adopted a merit pay plan for city employes and established classifications for jobs which set minimum and maximum pay for all annual and salaried employes under Civil Service.

Council said a plan for hourly-paid employes is being prepared and will be acted on prior to the July 1 effective date of the new plan.

No employe will receive a reduction in pay as a result of the new plan. In some cases where an employe is "between steps" in the classification plan, he will go to the next higher salary class provided.

Council said the entire cost over the next five years will amount to a total of "less than $25,000."

In issuing a statement on its unanimous opinion in the matter, council said it felt the plans are "in the best interests of all city employes and citizens."

"The present ordinances deal only with salaried employes. A study is being made in connection with hourly-paid and prior to July 1, 1960, similar ordinances will be introduced relative to hourly employes.

"We would like to further state that prior to July 1, ordinances will undoubtedly be introduced in connection with sick benefits, vacations and holidays so that the same regulations will apply to all city employes.

"It is felt that such a plan for hourly employes will cost approximately the same" as that for salaried employes, council said adding "It is also believed that these ordinances will improve morale of city employes and will give them a certain sense of job security; in addition, they will receive periodic pay increases so long as their work is satisfactory."

The merit pay plan sets up authority for a personnel officer, the duties of which will be assumed by City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery. On this point, Commissioner John J. Long said in answer to questions from some citizens, he wanted it emphasized that council is not creating a new position. The job is being assumed into the regular duties of the city clerk, he said.

In addition, the Civil Service Commission, in a letter signed by Francis A. Kenney, chairman, said it recommended adoption of the plan. It also noted it had recommended the move for some time to implement the 1955 job classification of city employes.

The separate classes called for in the ordinance, with the minimum salaries and pay raises leading to maximum salaries, follows:

Stock Market Declines For 7th Session In Row

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market suffered another sinking spell Tuesday—the seventh in a row—with all major industrial categories participating in the downrush.

The decline wiped more than three billion dollars from market valuations and brought the paper loss since the start of last week to well over 14 billion dollars.

The list spent only a small part of the afternoon on the upside, then went into a rapid decline in late trading.

The industrial stock average stood at 599.10 off 4.92, and a new low since Feb. 19, 1959. Losses of more than 3 in DuPont, and a point or more in Texaco, American Tobacco, General Electric and Allied Chemical were chiefly responsible for the decline.

Rails also sank to a new low in their average, closing at 138.18 off 0.79. It was the lowest the group has been since Sept. 18, 1958.

The 65 stocks which make up the Dow-Jones stock averages closed at 197.10 off 1.33, and a new low since Dec. 23, 1958. The utility average, which generally has resisted the market's overall weakness, fell to a new low since Feb. 18, this year.

Traders generally ignored a raft of good business items as they bid prices into a seventh lower session. Steel production was expected to edge up this week, short-term treasury borrowing costs took another and a number of companies reported good earnings for 1959.

A total of 202 issues touched new lows for the year, which was the most since Sept. 21, 1959 when 279 set new lows. Only four issues managed to establish new highs.

Stock Market Declines For 7th Session In Row

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market suffered another sinking spell Tuesday—the seventh in a row—with all major industrial categories participating in the downrush.

The decline wiped more than three billion dollars from market valuations and brought the paper loss since the start of last week to well over 14 billion dollars.

The list spent only a small part of the afternoon on the upside, then went into a rapid decline in late trading.

The industrial stock average stood at 599.10 off 4.92, and a new low since Feb. 19, 1959. Losses of more than 3 in DuPont, and a point or more in Texaco, American Tobacco, General Electric and Allied Chemical were chiefly responsible for the decline.

Rails also sank to a new low in their average, closing at 138.18 off 0.79. It was the lowest the group has been since Sept. 18, 1958.

The 65 stocks which make up the Dow-Jones stock averages closed at 197.10 off 1.33, and a new low since Dec. 23, 1958. The utility average, which generally has resisted the market's overall weakness, fell to a new low since Feb. 18, this year.

Traders generally ignored a raft of good business items as they bid prices into a seventh lower session. Steel production was expected to edge up this week, short-term treasury borrowing costs took another and a number of companies reported good earnings for 1959.

A total of 202 issues touched new lows for the year, which was the most since Sept. 21, 1959 when 279 set new lows. Only four issues managed to establish new highs.

City Studies Plan To Cut Bond Costs

Could Sell Notes In Uncertain Market

Legislation which may ease the cost of bonds for the City of Cumberland is being studied by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

Authority is given in House Bill 130 which was adopted by the General Assembly March 2 after it was amended by the Senate.

Senator Charles M. See said the amendment was trivial and will not affect the intent of the bill designed to allow political subdivisions who plan to issue bonds to secure ready money until the market for municipal securities improves.

Could Sell Notes

Mr. Gibson said the legislation would allow the City of Cumberland to issue notes in anticipation of the sale of a bond issue when the market for long-term money is too high.

This could, of course, be done only after the city completes the necessary legal steps, which include the adoption of a charter amendment resolution, the passage of 50 days and the absence of a referendum petition signed by 20 per cent of the city's voters.

The city auditor said succeeding short term notes could be issued until the market improved.

He added he believes the law would also make it possible for the city to sell short term notes in an emergency through private negotiations with local banks without going through with the expense of printing and selling bonds.

Such emergency financing, he added, could be repaid from tax revenues during the next fiscal year.

Is Using Plan

The Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland has been resorting to the sale of short term notes until the bond market improves at a cost of from about two to three per cent.

The City of Cumberland paid four per cent interest on the $300,000 Thruway Bond Issue sold last September.

The last city issue sold previously at four per cent was in 1920. The cost dropped to 1¼ per cent in 1945 when money was cheap.

Mr. Gibson said the copy of the bill was supplied by Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

We're All Just Fine

Patty Jane, who was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Falkenstein at their snowbound home near Cranesville, W. Va., Saturday morning without benefit of doctor or nurse, sleeps peacefully in her mother's lap as she receives the adoration of her family and Mrs. C. F. Cuppett, Cranesville, who walked a mile through the storm to give assistance but arrived after the baby was born with only the assistance of her father. Her sisters, Margaret Ann and Beverly Lynn, slept peacefully through the ordeal which began at midnight when Mrs. Falkenstein realized that the birth of her baby was not far off. The family appealed for a Preston County snow plow which arrived 50 hours later, after bucking heavy drifts, clearing the way for Dr. Charles Smith, Terra Alta physician and his wife, who is a nurse. The physician told the family after delivery that he couldn't have done better himself. The Falkenstein home, located near Swallow Falls, was in Maryland until 1911, when settlement of a boundary dispute placed it in West Virginia. Mrs. Falkenstein is the former Dorothy Sue Metheney.

Gray To Get Third Trial Here Today

Defendant Is Taken Ill

Raymond John Anthony Gray, 36, former resident, charged with armed robbery, is scheduled to appear before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris this morning in a third trial in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Yesterday morning the defendant was scheduled to be tried by a petit jury but became ill and the trial was postponed.

When he appears before Judge Harris this morning, his attorneys are expected to enter a plea of guilty to receiving stolen goods, the second count of the indictment on which the defendant had been tried on two previous occasions.

The trial is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. State's Attorney James S. Getty said the lawyers for Gray are expected to enter a plea of guilty on the second count of the indictment.

The maximum sentence for receiving stolen goods is 10 years, said the state's attorney. Robbery and assault and battery were the other counts in the indictment.

Gray was brought here Monday night from the Maryland Penitentiary where he has been serving a 10-year sentence for the robbery of William J. Cover, operator of a local service station, almost two years ago.

During the night Gray became ill in the County Jail and had to be supported by a penitentiary guard and a deputy sheriff when taken to the Court House shortly before the trial was to begin yesterday morning.

About three weeks ago Gray underwent surgery for a gall bladder condition and for the removal of his appendix. He has been out of the hospital about two weeks.

A large number of spectators was on hand for the trial yesterday morning, including the senior class of LaSalle High School.

Twice Gray has been convicted of robbing Cover of $350 on Septmber 11, 1958, but both times the Maryland Court of Appeals has reversed the judgment and has granted him a new trial.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A deed dispute between Paul and Josephine Branson of Mineral County and the South Cumberland Planing Mill Co., Cumberland, Md., was taken Tuesday to the State Supreme Court.

The couple claims a deed they received from the company limited their access to a road at Spring.

The defendants contend they were arrested illegally because no officer saw them breaking the law.

Morgan Co. Voters Back School Levy

Morgan County, W. Va., voters yesterday voted extension of the special 50 per cent school levy which has been in effect for the past three years.

A 60 per cent margin was required for passage of the levy, and of the 1,624 ballots cast 81.4 per cent were in favor of the levy, which provides an increase over and above the basic state salaries for teachers and other school personnel.

Of the votes cast, 1,322 were for the levy and 302 were against. The balloting thus continues the special levy for the next five years beginning July 1.

In the 19 precincts where ballots were cast only two had less than the required 60 per cent for passage. Greenwood voted 100 per cent in favor of the levy.

In Paw Paw's two precincts the balloting showed North Paw Paw in favor of the levy, 93 to 9, and South Paw Paw backing it 145 to 9.

The special levy provides an increase of $600 for master's degree, $500 for bachelor's degree, and $400 for all other degrees above the basic state salary limits.

The levy is expected to bring in about $65,000, of which $55,000 will go toward salaries of teachers and other school personnel and $10,000 will be used for upkeep and maintenance of school buildings, property and equipment.

The voting yesterday showed a decided increase also over the passage of the bill three years ago, when just 61.4 per cent of the voters favored the levy.

Plane Service Hearing Will Be Expedited

Exhibits To Be Filed By May 2

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorneys agreed Tuesday on steps to speed a hearing on a question of renewed air service to the Maryland cities of Cumberland, Easton and Cambridge.

The Civil Aeronautics Board has ordered an investigation of whether the service, started on a temporary basis, should be resumed by Allegheny Airlines. Allegheny discontinued the service Feb. 10, 1959.

Dates Are Set

At a pre-hearing conference before Examiner Curtis C. Henderson, lawyers agreed to file exhibits May 2 and rebuttal evidence May 16. The hearing probably will be held in Washington shortly after the latter date.

William R. Carscaden, Cumberland city solicitor, said his city will contend that the community is partly isolated by the lack of Allegheny's service. He said the airport, built with federal and local funds, probably would be wasted.

Cumberland will contend also, he said, that better service than was given by Allegheny under the temporary certificate would lead to better patronage.

The temporary service was one flight daily in the late afternoon.

Say Not Used

An attorney for Allegheny said the service was dropped after the patronage remained below five passengers originating daily at Cumberland. The board had said five passengers was the minimum for the granting of a permanent certificate.

Rudolph A. Drennan, Maryland state aviation director, told the examiner that Maryland does not plan to intervene but will serve as an adviser at the hearing.

The conference was attended also by Mayor J. Edwin Keech of Cumberland and L. Clark Ewing, representing Easton - Cambridge Airport Board.

Driver Killed In Crash

A tractor - trailer driver was killed late last night when his runaway truck ran over him after he had apparently jumped from the cab on U. S. 40 at the eastern foot of Town Hill Mountain.

State Police identified the victim as Clarence Lushbaugh of Hagerstown, a driver for Charlton Bros. Transportation Company.

Police said Lushbaugh was descending the eastern slope of the mountain shortly before 11 p. m. when the brakes apparently gave out. Lushbaugh apparently tried to ditch the rig and jump out, but was run over.

The tractor-trailer then hit a pole and burst into flames.

Flintstone Volunteer firemen put out the fire.

Roads Clear As Weather Improves

Temperatures moderated slightly yesterday following an overnight low which dropped to five above, lowest reading of the winter in Cumberland.

The day was crisp and clear and State Roads Commission spokesmen said highway conditions were good in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties. West of Frostburg roads were "generally bare."

Some county roads in Garrett have only one-way traffic and a few access roads are still covered, but the westernmost county generally has dug out from under the heavy snows which have plagued the area.

Oakland and Town Hill both reported eight below zero temperatures yesterday while Accident had two below; Big Savage two above; Frostburg eight above and LaVale two above.

Cumberland's five above zero temperature was the lowest in the Queen City this winter. Monday's reading of nine above had equalled the previous low of nine above on December 27.

The mercury rose to 26 during the day and last night it was slowly dropping once more. At 6 p. m. the official reading at Constitution Park was 24 above.

Forecast for today is increasing cloudiness and somewhat warmer weather.

Road Building, Auto Bills Kept Assembly Busy

Session Saw Major Highway Change

Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles reviewing the 1960 Maryland Legislature.

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Legislature opened the way to building more of the highways inviting faster automobile travel. At the same time, it took steps to bear down harder on traffic violators.

The modern day crush of the automobile produced its usual spate of proposed bills to meet it with more regulations. Only two were rejected, indicating a general climb aboard the "safety" band wagon.

In the first major policy change in road building in seven years, the Legislature authorized the State Roads Commission to concentrate on completing a 400-mile network of major highways.

During the next five years, the commission will spend an estimated 368 million dollars on big roads. Only a comparatively paltry 40 million will be available for secondary roads.

Grumbling Next Year?

By next year, when the Legislature reconvenes and hears from the commission what secondary roads it has in mind, there may be some loud grumbling.

There were some signs of skepticism among county legislators over approval of the plan, but it had the strong endorsement of Gov. Tawes and passed easily.

The major legislation enacted directly affecting the driver is institution of periodic renewal of his license every two years. However, it will amount to no more than paperwork and a modest fee.

Licenses will have to be renewed every two years at a cost of $2. It will be done by mail and require no new examination of physical condition, ability to operate a car or knowledge of the laws.

Notarization of the application, required in the current relicensing, also will be eliminated.

Tougher Penalties

Hit-run drivers and those caught driving while their license is suspended or revoked face stiffer penalties. The hit-run driver will be subject to a mandatory minimum of 1-3 years in prison in contrast to the past 30 days to one year.

The driver without a license will be sentenced to at least 30 days and up to six months and fined at least $100 up to $1,000. Drivers were given 10 days by the Legislature to appeal notices of suspension or revocation of their licenses.

Anyone who gives the Department of Motor Vehicles a worthless check will be charged $5 instead of $2, the Legislature decided.

The Legislature also restored authority of the department to refuse a registration to anyone who has an outstanding traffic violation. The department used to exercise this power, but the attorney general ruled last year it was doing it without legislative sanction.

Another effort to speed up driver training for high school students failed again. The proposal was to increase the fee for learner permits from $1 to $5 and use the extra money to finance the courses in every high school.

Some high schools now provide the trainining, but it is not compulsory.

Reporting Bill Killed

The Legislature also put the brakes on a bill that would have required immediate reporting of traffic accidents to police.

Gov. Tawes also declined to approve introduction late in the short session of a complicated and prospectively controversial recommendation to change the method of distributing highway revenues.

It is expected to come up at next year's 90-day session. Based on a commission report, it would base distribution of funds to the counties and Baltimore City on the number of motor vehicles registered in their subdivision.

The funds raised by taxes on gasoline and registration fees now are split half to the state, 30 per cent to Baltimore City and 20 per cent to the counties. The county share is figured on the road mileage in each.

City Studies Plan To Cut Bond Costs

Could Sell Notes In Uncertain Market

Legislation which may ease the cost of bonds for the City of Cumberland is being studied by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

Authority is given in House Bill 130 which was adopted by the General Assembly March 2 after it was amended by the Senate.

Senator Charles M. See said the amendment was trivial and will not affect the intent of the bill designed to allow political subdivisions who plan to issue bonds to secure ready money until the market for municipal securities improves.

Could Sell Notes

Mr. Gibson said the legislation would allow the City of Cumberland to issue notes in anticipation of the sale of a bond issue when the market for long-term money is too high.

This could, of course, be done only after the city completes the necessary legal steps, which include the adoption of a charter amendment resolution, the passage of 50 days and the absence of a referendum petition signed by 20 per cent of the city's voters.

The city auditor said succeeding short term notes could be issued until the market improved.

He added he believes the law would also make it possible for the city to sell short term notes in an emergency through private negotiations with local banks without going through with the expense of printing and selling bonds.

Such emergency financing, he added, could be repaid from tax revenues during the next fiscal year.

Is Using Plan

The Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland has been resorting to the sale of short term notes until the bond market improves at a cost of from about two to three per cent.

The City of Cumberland paid four per cent interest on the $300,000 Thruway Bond Issue sold last September.

The last city issue sold previously at four per cent was in 1920. The cost dropped to 1¼ per cent in 1945 when money was cheap.

Mr. Gibson said the copy of the bill was supplied by Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

We're All Just Fine

Patty Jane, who was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Falkenstein at their snowbound home near Cranesville, W. Va., Saturday morning without benefit of doctor or nurse, sleeps peacefully in her mother's lap as she receives the adoration of her family and Mrs. C. F. Cuppett, Cranesville, who walked a mile through the storm to give assistance but arrived after the baby was born with only the assistance of her father. Her sisters, Margaret Ann and Beverly Lynn, slept peacefully through the ordeal which began at midnight when Mrs. Falkenstein realized that the birth of her baby was not far off. The family appealed for a Preston County snow plow which arrived 50 hours later, after bucking heavy drifts, clearing the way for Dr. Charles Smith, Terra Alta physician and his wife, who is a nurse. The physician told the family after delivery that he couldn't have done better himself. The Falkenstein home, located near Swallow Falls, was in Maryland until 1911, when settlement of a boundary dispute placed it in West Virginia. Mrs. Falkenstein is the former Dorothy Sue Metheney.

Plane Service Hearing Will Be Expedited

Exhibits To Be Filed By May 2

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorneys agreed Tuesday on steps to speed a hearing on a question of renewed air service to the Maryland cities of Cumberland, Easton and Cambridge.

The Civil Aeronautics Board has ordered an investigation of whether the service, started on a temporary basis, should be resumed by Allegheny Airlines. Allegheny discontinued the service Feb. 10, 1959.

Dates Are Set

At a pre-hearing conference before Examiner Curtis C. Henderson, lawyers agreed to file exhibits May 2 and rebuttal evidence May 16. The hearing probably will be held in Washington shortly after the latter date.

William R. Carscaden, Cumberland city solicitor, said his city will contend that the community is partly isolated by the lack of Allegheny's service. He said the airport, built with federal and local funds, probably would be wasted.

Cumberland will contend also, he said, that better service than was given by Allegheny under the temporary certificate would lead to better patronage.

The temporary service was one flight daily in the late afternoon.

Say Not Used

An attorney for Allegheny said the service was dropped after the patronage remained below five passengers originating daily at Cumberland. The board had said five passengers was the minimum for the granting of a permanent certificate.

Rudolph A. Drennan, Maryland state aviation director, told the examiner that Maryland does not plan to intervene but will serve as an adviser at the hearing.

The conference was attended also by Mayor J. Edwin Keech of Cumberland and L. Clark Ewing, representing Easton - Cambridge Airport Board.

Driver Killed In Crash

A tractor - trailer driver was killed late last night when his runaway truck ran over him after he had apparently jumped from the cab on U. S. 40 at the eastern foot of Town Hill Mountain.

State Police identified the victim as Clarence Lushbaugh of Hagerstown, a driver for Charlton Bros. Transportation Company.

Police said Lushbaugh was descending the eastern slope of the mountain shortly before 11 p. m. when the brakes apparently gave out. Lushbaugh apparently tried to ditch the rig and jump out, but was run over.

The tractor-trailer then hit a pole and burst into flames.

Flintstone Volunteer firemen put out the fire.

Road Building, Auto Bills Kept Assembly Busy

Session Saw Major Highway Change

Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles reviewing the 1960 Maryland Legislature.

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Legislature opened the way to building more of the highways inviting faster automobile travel. At the same time, it took steps to bear down harder on traffic violators.

The modern day crush of the automobile produced its usual spate of proposed bills to meet it with more regulations. Only two were rejected, indicating a general climb aboard the "safety" band wagon.

In the first major policy change in road building in seven years, the Legislature authorized the State Roads Commission to concentrate on completing a 400-mile network of major highways.

During the next five years, the commission will spend an estimated 368 million dollars on big roads. Only a comparatively paltry 40 million will be available for secondary roads.

Grumbling Next Year?

By next year, when the Legislature reconvenes and hears from the commission what secondary roads it has in mind, there may be some loud grumbling.

There were some signs of skepticism among county legislators over approval of the plan, but it had the strong endorsement of Gov. Tawes and passed easily.

The major legislation enacted directly affecting the driver is institution of periodic renewal of his license every two years. However, it will amount to no more than paperwork and a modest fee.

Licenses will have to be renewed every two years at a cost of $2. It will be done by mail and require no new examination of physical condition, ability to operate a car or knowledge of the laws.

Notarization of the application, required in the current relicensing, also will be eliminated.

Tougher Penalties

Hit-run drivers and those caught driving while their license is suspended or revoked face stiffer penalties. The hit-run driver will be subject to a mandatory minimum of 1-3 years in prison in contrast to the past 30 days to one year.

The driver without a license will be sentenced to at least 30 days and up to six months and fined at least $100 up to $1,000. Drivers were given 10 days by the Legislature to appeal notices of suspension or revocation of their licenses.

Anyone who gives the Department of Motor Vehicles a worthless check will be charged $5 instead of $2, the Legislature decided.

The Legislature also restored authority of the department to refuse a registration to anyone who has an outstanding traffic violation. The department used to exercise this power, but the attorney general ruled last year it was doing it without legislative sanction.

Another effort to speed up driver training for high school students failed again. The proposal was to increase the fee for learner permits from $1 to $5 and use the extra money to finance the courses in every high school.

Some high schools now provide the trainining, but it is not compulsory.

Roads Clear As Weather Improves

Temperatures moderated slightly yesterday following an overnight low which dropped to five above, lowest reading of the winter in Cumberland.

The day was crisp and clear and State Roads Commission spokesmen said highway conditions were good in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties. West of Frostburg roads were "generally bare."

Some county roads in Garrett have only one-way traffic and a few access roads are still covered, but the westernmost county generally has dug out from under the heavy snows which have plagued the area.

Oakland and Town Hill both reported eight below zero temperatures yesterday while Accident had two below; Big Savage two above; Frostburg eight above and LaVale two above.

Cumberland's five above zero temperature was the lowest in the Queen City this winter. Monday's reading of nine above had equalled the previous low of nine above on December 27.

The mercury rose to 26 during the day and last night it was slowly dropping once more. At 6 p. m. the official reading at Constitution Park was 24 above.

Forecast for today is increasing cloudiness and somewhat warmer weather.

Gray To Get Third Trial Here Today

Defendant Is Taken Ill

Raymond John Anthony Gray, 36, former resident, charged with armed robbery, is scheduled to appear before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris this morning in a third trial in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Yesterday morning the defendant was scheduled to be tried by a petit jury but became ill and the trial was postponed.

When he appears before Judge Harris this morning, his attorneys are expected to enter a plea of guilty to receiving stolen goods, the second count of the indictment on which the defendant had been tried on two previous occasions.

The trial is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. State's Attorney James S. Getty said the lawyers for Gray are expected to enter a plea of guilty on the second count of the indictment.

The maximum sentence for receiving stolen goods is 10 years, said the state's attorney. Robbery and assault and battery were the other counts in the indictment.

Gray was brought here Monday night from the Maryland Penitentiary where he has been serving a 10-year sentence for the robbery of William J. Cover, operator of a local service station, almost two years ago.

During the night Gray became ill in the County Jail and had to be supported by a penitentiary guard and a deputy sheriff when taken to the Court House shortly before the trial was to begin yesterday morning.

About three weeks ago Gray underwent surgery for a gall bladder condition and for the removal of his appendix. He has been out of the hospital about two weeks.

A large number of spectators was on hand for the trial yesterday morning, including the senior class of LaSalle High School.

Twice Gray has been convicted of robbing Cover of $350 on Septmber 11, 1958, but both times the Maryland Court of Appeals has reversed the judgment and has granted him a new trial.

Morgan Co. Voters Back School Levy

Morgan County, W. Va., voters yesterday voted extension of the special 50 per cent school levy which has been in effect for the past three years.

A 60 per cent margin was required for passage of the levy, and of the 1,624 ballots cast 81.4 per cent were in favor of the levy, which provides an increase over and above the basic state salaries for teachers and other school personnel.

Of the votes cast, 1,322 were for the levy and 302 were against. The balloting thus continues the special levy for the next five years beginning July 1.

In the 19 precincts where ballots were cast only two had less than the required 60 per cent for passage. Greenwood voted 100 per cent in favor of the levy.

In Paw Paw's two precincts the balloting showed North Paw Paw in favor of the levy, 93 to 9, and South Paw Paw backing it 145 to 9.

The special levy provides an increase of $600 for master's degree, $500 for bachelor's degree, and $400 for all other degrees above the basic state salary limits.

The levy is expected to bring in about $65,000, of which $55,000 will go toward salaries of teachers and other school personnel and $10,000 will be used for upkeep and maintenance of school buildings, property and equipment.

The voting yesterday showed a decided increase also over the passage of the bill three years ago, when just 61.4 per cent of the voters favored the levy.
